BRITAIN ASKS SAFETY FOR SHIPS AT BARCELONA

Played Mouth Organ While Waiting Doom On Rolling Dunsyre

Capt. W. Billington, Roy Larkin and Allan Heater Return to Victoria After Harrowing Experience on Drifting Barge; Expected to Be Dashed Ashore in Darkness; Rowed Five Miles Through Big Seas to Safety of Lighthouse

"Home, Sweet Home" Was Tune Played

"The worst part of it was just sitting there waiting for her to hit," said Allan Heater, nineteen-year-old member of the crew of the ill-fated barge Dunsyre, who returned to Victoria this morning aboard the S. Salvage King with Capt. W. Billington and Roy Larkin, who also spent all Tuesday night, in a howling gale, aboard the helpless craft off the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The three men thought they would never see land again. For eighteen hours they were aboard the Dunsyre, with lifeboats strapped to them. They were soaked wet, for spray dashed over the decks. They could hardly stand as the vessel was rolling and plunging so heavily. Yet throughout the night they kept their nerve and only felt shaky when they reached safety at Kains Island lighthouse on Wednesday morning.

"The wind was howling so badly we had to shout at each other," young Heater said. "It was raining so hard we couldn't see half a mile. We had to crawl along the deck on our hands and knees, it was blowing so hard."

Like true seafarers, the three men set up watches and there was always one man on deck. The other two remained below in the dry, momentarily expecting to be dashed ashore. They were ready to leave the minute they heard the crash, although they felt they would never get ashore if the vessel hit in the darkness.

As Heater and Larkin sat in their rolling cabin they picked up an old newspaper and in it they read of a shipwreck, which didn't help things any.

"I had my mouth organ in my pocket," Heater said, "so I played 'Home, Sweet Home' which I thought appropriate."

About 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning the drifting barge passed between Solander Island and Cape Cook.

"We thought sure we were going to hit," Heater said, "We just waited, but she passed right through."

LAUNCHED LIFEBOAT
At dawn Wednesday the three men saw their barge drifting perilously close to the rocks.
Capt. Billington decided then they had better leave, Heater said. "The lifeboat had been swung over the side all night and we got her to the water. She shipped a big sea before we were really away from the ship's side."
Heater was lowered to the water in the boat and Billington and Larkin went down a rope ladder. The lifeboat had been loaded with provisions, for they didn't know where they might land along the desolate shore. They were prepared—although they thought they might never land

"A Miracle—"

ALLAN HEATER who said it was "a miracle" that the three men of the barge Dunsyre ever saw land again.

Ontario Learns Victorian Honest

Canadian Press
London, Ont., Nov. 20.—I. E. Chisholm, manager of a chain store here, has received a letter containing $1 from a Victoria, B.C., man who reveals he is living "on a new basis of absolute honesty."

SCORE OF MEN DRIFT ON ICE

Twenty-five Fishermen in Danger in Lake Dauphin, Manitoba

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—Twenty-five fishermen were reported here today to be adrift on an ice floe in Lake Dauphin, in northwest Manitoba, and were being driven out into the lake by a strong westerly wind and rain squalls, that held all aircraft to the ground.
The floe was said to have broken off from shore ice in the northern part of the small lake at a point about 200 miles northwest of Winnipeg. No details were available.
Lake Dauphin is about forty miles long and from ten to fifteen miles wide.
Other unconfirmed reports said another group of fishermen was stranded on a floating field of ice in Lake Manitoba. It was in Lake Manitoba nearly 100 fishermen were rescued from a runaway ice pack Wednesday.

YUKON OLD-TIMER DIES

Edmonton, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—William A. Gilliland, sixty-three, a Klondike soundrough and an Edmonton old-timer, died here yesterday evening. Born in Fisherton, Ont., he came west in 1908.

MANITOBA TODAY SWEEP BY WINDS

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—High winds from the west swept over Manitoba today, apparently the sequel to gales which caused heavy damages in Alberta in the past two days and brought dust storms to parts of Saskatchewan in their sweep from the Rocky Mountains.
Temperatures on the prairies hovered between 40 and 50 degrees above zero, comparatively high for the season. At some points yesterday, temperatures shot up to near the 70-degree mark. A week ago below-zero weather was general.

THOUSAND DIE IN JAPAN FLOOD

Scenes of Horror Follow Rush of Water From Broken Mine Reservoir

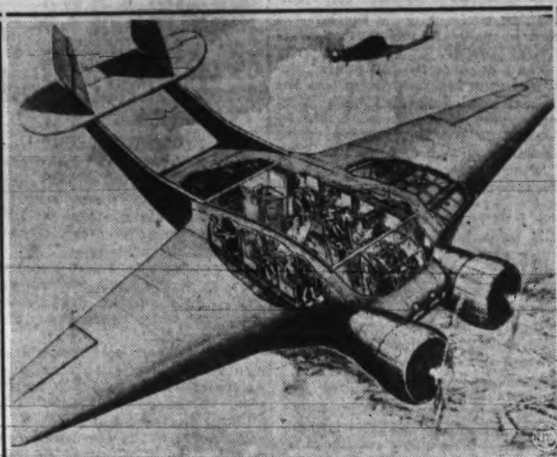

Associated Press
Osarusawa, Akita Prefecture, Japan, Nov. 20.—Three thousand rescue workers dug tonight in treacherous mud for the bodies of 1,000 missing residents of this town, engulfed by the rushing waters of a broken mine reservoir.
Some of the bodies were buried twenty feet deep in the poisonous ooze. Eight bodies had been found at nightfall.
The railroad bureau said 330 houses had been swept away and 200 inundated. The known deaths were placed at 250, with 1,000 persons still missing.

IN MINE REGION
The torrent raced down on the village from one of the largest copper mines in the empire. Sleeping inhabitants were trapped in their beds. Their homes were caught up by the released flood and dashed against the rocky sides of a narrow canyon.
The majority of the residents met immediate death by drowning. Others were suffocated in mud carried by the water, a poisonous solution which was used at the mine for washing copper ore.
Hundreds of bodies were washed on the banks of the canyon, transformed into a muddy torrent. Many women still held their babies clasped in their arms.

SOLDIERS SENT
Rehabilitation work began immediately after the news of the disaster had been flashed to nearby Akita city. Japanese troops were sent to the scene.

W. A. Tucker Not Attending Vancouver Police Hearing Until Advice Provided
Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 20.—Wilfred A. Tucker, discharged police department accountant, whose report will be investigated by Hon. W. A. Macdonald, said today he will ignore a subpoena to appear before the commissioner unless the Vancouver city council provides him with counsel of his own choosing.
"I have been advised, legally and otherwise, that I am well within my rights in insisting on appointment of a lawyer, with his fees guaranteed by the city," Tucker said.
Tucker stated he had two or three lawyers in mind who would be suitable to him, but said he could not disclose their names.

HOUSE HELD UP BY ATTACK ON MARKETS BILL

Leeming, Brown Now Restored

Victoria city's private bill went through the Legislature yesterday with an explanation by Byron Johnson, Liberal, Victoria, and no further debate.
It had three provisions, to enable the city to refuse maturing, serials, to remove the disqualification threat from Mayor Leeming and Alderman Brown, and to give the city the right to make a deal on the grain elevator.

Judge Upholds Will Baby Race

Conditions of $500,000 Legacy of Late Charles V. Millar, Basis of Toronto Stork Derby, Found Valid; Claims of Mothers Will Be Heard
Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 20.—The stork derby clause of the late Charles Vance Millar's fantastic will, bequeathing a $500,000 fortune to the Toronto mother bearing the most children in a ten-year period ended October 31, 1936, was adjudged valid today by Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton of the Ontario Appeal Court.
The decision set the stage for the next legal manoeuvre, which will result in Mr. Justice Middleton directing that the fortune go to one of more of a dozen baby derby contestants. He will hear further argument in court before deciding.

In a thirty-page judgment, Mr. Justice Middleton gave reasons for reaching the conclusion that the famous clause 9 of the Millar will, setting up a prize for the stork-race winner, was valid. He expressed the opinion the clause could not be successfully attacked.
BOTH GROUNDS FAIL
"To sum up the conclusions at which I have arrived," he said near the end of the judgment, "I do not think the will can be attacked on the first suggested ground of offending against public policy, nor do I think the will can be attacked on the grounds that it tends to encourage immorality, for the distribution is confined, in my view, to the mothers of legitimate children only."

France Watches Barcelona Front

Associated Press

One thing was certain, officials said—the French are determined above all to adhere to their policy of strict non-intervention.

Wants To Go To Penitentiary

Reginald Porter Tells Court of Willful Acts to Have Family Cared For

"These actions were willful efforts to become arrested, I understand that if a man was sent to the penitentiary his wife and family would get a substantial allowance," Reginald Porter told Magistrate Henry Hall in City Police Court this morning.
Porter had previously pleaded guilty to two charges of attempting to obtain money and goods by false pretences, and not guilty to a similar charge. He altered the third plea to guilty this morning.
Magistrate Hall remanded Porter for sentence until tomorrow to permit a full consideration of his remarkable statement.
After evidence had been heard from the credit managers of two stores with reference to the attempts, and previous convictions on the mainland for similar offences had been read against him, Porter told Magistrate Hall he had been released from jail in Vancouver last Saturday.

New Measure to Control Agricultural Products Stirs Fight in Legislature As Time For Prorogation Is Set

The provincial government's new marketing bill, introduced late last night by Hon. K. C. Macdonald, Minister of Agriculture, stirred up a bitter fight in the B.C. Legislature this morning and prorogation of the House, set for 2 o'clock this afternoon, was delayed until later in the day.
In ninety minutes of debate this morning the House passed only the title of the bill.
After a heated charge by Ernest Bakewell, Social Constructive, Macdonald, that no one who had "any regard for the Bill of Rights or the Magna Charta" would vote for the right to search vehicles on the highways, Dr. Macdonald suddenly moved the committee rise.
Premier Pattullo immediately adjourned the House until 2:30 o'clock. Whether the government would propose amendments to the bill to meet various objections or would attempt to push it through was uncertain when the House rose.
It was indicated, however, that when the House reconvened it would continue with the few remaining pieces of business until it was ready to receive the Lieutenant-Governor for assent to the bills.
Should the fight on the marketing bill continue this may not be until a late hour tonight.
The House also had still to receive a report from its standing committee on agriculture which for the last five days has been investigating the operations of the coast vegetable marketing board. There was a possibility this might produce another debate as several members of the committee were urging that the inquiry be continued outside the House under the Public Inquiries Act.
Opposition to the marketing bill in the House developed on two counts: that the measure had been introduced in the dying hours of the session; and that market control is already under fire at many points.

No Even Splits In Appeal Court

Two-two decisions of the B.C. Court of Appeal will be impossible in the future, as the result of a bill passed by the Legislature yesterday. It provides that either three or five judges must render opinions on cases, thus ensuring a majority verdict.
In the past when one justice of the five-member court has been absent, an even-division has resulted in dismissal of an appeal. This condition was regarded as unsatisfactory.

RIVERA EXECUTED BY MADRID MEN

Associated Press
Valencia, Spain, Nov. 20.—Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator, General Miguel Primo de Rivera, was executed at the Alicante prison by a firing squad of assault guards today.
Young De Rivera was once commander of the Spanish Falange, a group of Fascist-inclined agitators. He was condemned yesterday by a popular tribunal for participation in the Fascist rebellion, although he denied it.
His brother, Miguel Jr., was sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment.

Safe Anchorage for British Ships at Barcelona Is Expected by London Government, Gen. Franco Is Informed; Britain Will Not Tolerate Interference With Ships Outside Territorial Waters of Spain

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 20.—Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador to Spain, was urgently instructed today to secure from the authorities of the provisional government at Burgos, Spain, guarantees for safe anchorage for British ships at Barcelona. Sir Henry is at Hendaye, France.
Great Britain has not recognized General Francisco Franco, leader of the insurgents, as a belligerent. Until Gen. Franco has been given belligerent rights he has no authority to impose a blockade. (The insurgent general yesterday announced he intended to establish a blockade of Barcelona.)

Britain, it is intimated, will not in the meantime tolerate interference with British shipping on the high seas. A sharp distinction is drawn between shipping in Spanish territorial waters, which may be the scene of military operations, and shipping outside territorial waters—in other words, on the high seas.

The question under discussion between Sir Henry and the Burgos government concerns bombardment of Barcelona. Gen. Franco has notified Britain he intends to stop the arms traffic through Barcelona by every means of war at his disposal. He is reported ready to destroy the port if necessary.
WOULD-RUN RISK
It is recognized here that if British shipping at Barcelona, after being duly warned, disregards the warning, it runs its own risk, although this is without prejudice to any damages which may subsequently be claimed.
But a different issue would arise if Gen. Franco should attempt under blockade decrees to exercise the right of search and seizure outside the Spanish three-mile limit. Before he can impose a blockade Gen. Franco must be recognized as a belligerent (although not necessarily as the De Jure government of Spain) and must be able to make the blockade effective.

Britain has not yet recognized either the Madrid or Burgos government as belligerents, although there is a possibility such a step is mooted.
WEAK BLOCKADE MOVE
London naval circles strongly doubt whether Gen. Franco is able to establish a blockade. The Madrid government fleet is stronger than that of the insurgents, although seriously handicapped by lack of officers.
TASK FOR SUBMARINES
"Able handled," writes Hector C. Bywater, naval correspondent of The London Daily Telegraph, "two government submarines should have no difficulty in raising the blockade." It seems clear that unless the insurgent ships now off northern Spain can join those in the south it will be impossible to establish even a semblance of a blockade of the Barcelona coast.

To prevent such a junction five government submarines are reported patrolling between the Straits of Gibraltar and Malaga. It is yet to be seen whether these submarines which appear to have no officers aboard are capable of effective action.

Agreement With Germany Endangers Empire's Relations With Russia, Tokio Is Informed

Associated Press
Moscow, Nov. 20.—The Soviet Government tonight advised Tokio it considered an agreement between Japan and Germany as certain to harm Soviet-Japanese relations.
Dr. Constantine Ourenoff called on Foreign Minister Mochiro Arima at Tokio, Soviet sources said, and stated the Japanese "explanation" of the reported agreement was not satisfactory.
The Russians said they considered the reported Japanese-German agreement to form a common front against Communism as directed against a "third country" (Russia).
Soviet official sources have declared the reported agreement, which has not been acknowledged by either

Madrid Says Defence Holds

Government Reports Lines Intact After Two Weeks of Heaviest Attacks

By H. E. KNOBLAUGH
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Madrid, Nov. 20.—A steady stream of men, women and children poured out of Madrid's danger spots in a hard rain today under urgent orders to evacuate the areas of heavy Fascist bombardment.
The rains last night and early this morning forced a let-up in the fighting and gave the refugees an opportunity to take up new quarters.
At the same time the government surveyed its defence lines and declared them intact after a fortnight of siege unparalleled in the last eighteen years.

ON THREE SIDES

Defence officers said the republic's improvised army was manning barricades on three sides of the insurgent troops who are holding positions in University City. Inside the northwest border of Madrid the defenders were prepared for a surprise attack.
Socialist troops in the outskirts of shattered Madrid repulsed insurgent infantry and cavalry attacks in three sectors, the War Ministry asserted.
Government lines held back Fascist drives near the "Frenchman's Bridge" in the northwestern section, in the Uersa district south of Casa del Campo Park, and from Carabanchel Dajo in the southwestern suburbs, the official report declared.

RELATIVES BARRED
"I therefore answer the question submitted and hold that the clause referred to is valid and that those entitled on intestacy are not entitled to take. I reserve the question as to those who are entitled to take under the will for future argument and decision."

The ruling that "those entitled on intestacy are not entitled to take" referred to groups of Miller relatives who sought to have the will's clause declared void on the grounds it was contrary to public policy.

PUBLIC POLICY
The judgment explained Mr. Justice Middleton's refusal at the hearing to agree to requests by I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., representing Miller relatives generally, and Samuel Factor, K.C., M.P., representing one group of relatives, to hear evidence on the public policy question.

"The question of public policy is one for the court and the court alone," said the judgment, "and the court is not entitled to act on the views

Funds Raised For Ranch Fire Losers

Calgary People Quickly Respond to Appeal For Aid For People Whose Lands West of City Were Swept

Canadian Press
Calgary, Nov. 20.—A relief fund to aid homeless families in the stricken Bow River Valley ranchland fire district was opened here today. A newspaper sponsored the "Bow River Fund."

More than a score of men, women and children yesterday saved only the clothes on their backs from the destructive forest flames.

Quickly money, food, clothing and offers of transportation were received by fund officials.

By GEORGE FINLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Calgary, Nov. 20.—Ranch families in the Bow River valley trooped back to their homes today, some to view fire destroyed houses and buildings, lost livestock and storage crops, and others to tally missing animals.

Across 100,000 acres forest fires yesterday turned grazing lands into a blackened desolation, forcing families to flee through barriers of smoke and flame to safety. Seven families were homeless today. Others had suffered property and livestock loss running into the thousands.

It will be days before the exact loss is known. Returning to their homes today, ranchers started a round-up across the blackened valley country. More than 5,000 cattle were in the district; hundreds, it was believed, were dead; others were scattered across the rangelands.

Cause of the fire was unknown today. Rehabilitation plans were discussed, and it was understood the Western Stock Growers' Association would aid.

RAIN WAS TIMELY
Rain halted the fires last night. Today sunshine lighted the scene of desolation. Winds of gale proportion had died down and lower temperatures ruled. There was a heavy frost during the night.

In Calgary normal conditions prevailed today after yesterday's tie-up of power services and storm damage. The conflagration that started in the brushlands west of Cochrane, twenty-five miles west of Calgary, had spread over an area thirty-six miles long by six miles wide before the rain came last night.

MANY POLES BURNED
Long lines of blackened power and communication poles stretching from the Bow River to within twelve miles of this city gave mute evidence of the fire's advance.

Destruction of power lines threw towns near Calgary into darkness last night.

CROWN'S NEST FIRES
A calmer night and heavy frost eased the situation in the Crown's Nest Pass fire zone, near Hillcrest. No rain fell during the night, but fire fighters believed they had control in the district today.

Lumber operators suffered heavy losses yesterday, one losing 20,000 feet of saw logs as the flames worked eastward. The fires are within six miles of Milecastle, and about five miles west of Hillcrest, but the two mining towns are not in immediate danger, according to latest reports.

Canadian Press
Cochrane, Alta., Nov. 20.—Refugees from the forest fire that destroyed the farm home, Frank and Alfie Coelen, twelve-year-old twins, had one worry today. It was the loss of the family livestock.

"I just know our baby colt didn't escape," said Frank, near tears as he awaited here for word from his father.

"Then there's all the cows, horses and chickens." Perhaps some of them got away.

Destruction of their home was bad, but it could be rebuilt.

THOUSAND DIE IN JAPAN FLOOD

assist local detachments in restoring order in the vicinity.

Japanese Red Cross staffs, health officials, physicians and nurses hurried to the scene.

CAUSED BY RAINS

The bursting of the reservoir was believed caused by heavy rains which swelled the contents of the huge receptacle until it broke.

Sweeping down on the village below, the flood carried along residents, timber-wood dwellings, livestock and everything in its path.

It caused additional damage as it swept down the rocky creek bed, flooding other villages in its race to the Noshogawa River.

Rescue workers found only eighteen survivors who managed to escape the swirling waters. The death toll, first set at hundreds, mounted to more than 1,000.

The mine employed about 2,000 workmen, many of whom lived in Oaruaawa, while others resided in neighboring villages.

TAXI DRIVERS' WAGES SET

Edmonton, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Minimum wage for taxi drivers in Calgary and Edmonton of $15 for a six-day week has been ordered by the Alberta highway traffic board, it was announced here today by Chairman Homer F. Keith. The order is effective from December 15. Many drivers have worked on a commission basis, and the general situation has not been satisfactory, Mr. Keith said.

HOUSE HELD UP BY ATTACK ON MARKETS BILL

sition regarding the last-minute appearance of the bill Dr. MacDonald said marketing experts had been working continually for the last ten days to make the measures as effective as possible.

The section of the bill proposing a new scheme to substitute in case the present marketing laws were ruled out by the Privy Council would be referred to the courts for a ruling before going into operation, he said.

"Powers over marketing must be somewhere, either with the Dominion or the province and we want to get the question settled once and for all," he declared.

SAME PRINCIPLE
"Except for one or two things the bill does not depart from the principle of our present marketing law," the minister declared. "However it is an endeavor to strengthen the law so that it cannot be successfully attacked in the courts. Surely the members want us to protect the farmer as much as possible."

"Has the select committee on agriculture been consulted on the bill?" demanded Mr. Bakewell.

"Absolutely no," replied the minister, going on to explain the bill had been held up to the last minute so that all avenues of ensuring its validity could be explored.

SLOAN REPLIES
As C.C.F. and Social Constructive members continued their attack on the measure, Attorney-General Sloan replied that it was curious that those members who favored Socialism should oppose a measure that was the essence of state control.

Jack Price, Social Constructive, Vancouver East, denied this and E. W. W. C.C.F., Burnaby, declared their quarrel was not with the bill but with the way it was brought into the House.

"The whole idea of this bill is to see justice done to those who are on the soil and producing the necessities of life," declared Dr. MacDonald.

"VERY BAD TASTE"
Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the Opposition, declared government remarks about the Opposition holding up the House were "in very bad taste."

He reminded the premier of his vigorous work as Opposition leader against the Toimie government.

He chided the government on its appeal to the opposition to support the bill, and recalled that the opposition had saved the government's Health Insurance Act last session, although they were not fully in accord with all its provisions.

"In view of the opposition that has been shown to marketing control, this bill should have been given much greater consideration than it is getting," said Mr. Connell. "Many of the opponents are persons who are supposed to benefit from this legislation."

R. H. Carson, Liberal, Kamloops, declared that if all farmers were in agreement, there would be no need for the bill. He felt, however, that the great bulk of the agriculturists were in favor of marketing control.

"BACK LOT" FARMERS
Premier Pattullo, replying to private objections he had heard, assured the House that there was no intention to control every person who grew a few products on a back lot, and to clarify this moved a minor amendment.

"I've got four acres of apples, and this I've got to take out," he said, "and I don't want to be controlled. What appeal do I have?"

Dr. MacDonald explained that the license system replaced the levy powers formerly granted under Dominion law.

The minister said licensing was the only way to stop "bootlegging" of products.

Byron Johnson, Liberal, Victoria, asked if marketing boards would have power to say which firms could haul produce to market?

Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Liberal, Revelstoke, and R. W. Bruhn, Independent, Salmon Arm, asked for an explanation of the position of truck and freight men.

"Anyone can get a license, but it is essential to have trucks licensed in order to halt bootlegging," the minister declared.

CONSUMERS' POSITION
Mrs. D. G. Steeves, C.C.F., North Vancouver, declared consumers were protesting about the high prices and low quality of controlled products, and said they should have some representation in the control schemes.

The minister replied that consumers could protect themselves by consumers' leagues, but no board would be named who would ignore the rights of the consumer.

Mr. Bakewell hotly defended the rights of "driven to resist search on the highway by officials of the 'Gilbertian' board."

"The power could be abused terribly," he said. "Any person who has any regard for the Bill of Rights and Magna Charta should object to this provision."

At this stage Dr. MacDonald moved the committee rise to consider the bill later, and the Premier adjourned the House.

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—Hon. John Buchan, eldest son of Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, has bagged leopards and buffalo in Africa. Now he wants Canadian caribou.

He passed through here today en route to Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, where for two weeks he will hunt big game.

Hitch-hiker Robber Hunted

Associated Press
Kelso, Wash., Nov. 20.—Police of three states today sought a well-dressed hitch-hiker who last night knocked out a befriending motorist left his unconscious form beside the road after rifling his pockets, and sped away with his automobile.

The victim, C. W. Spellright, salesman for an Oakland, Cal., marine hardware firm, picked up the hitch-hiker on the Pacific Highway south of Chehalis.

Fire broke out in the county council offices. The ruins of three houses in Reyes Street, blazed. Refugees in a house on Andres Melado Street were buried in a cellar.

Nearly every district of Madrid felt the concussions with the exception of the eastern residential sections.

NEUTRAL ZONE
The so-called neutral zone, extending from the streets of Zurbarano to Valasquez and from Goya to Diego de Leon, in north-eastern Madrid, was filled nearly to capacity with frightened families whose homes have been reduced to ashes.

Defence authorities announced government planes yesterday had shot down six insurgent craft, losing two of their own planes in various encounters.

SIX PLANES IN FIGHT
The largest aerial fight of the civil war, these authorities said, occurred when a fleet of sixteen government planes attacked forty-four enemy craft which included eighteen tri-motor bombers, six light bombers and a score of pursuit planes. Three tri-motors and three pursuit planes were shot down by the government fleet, the announcement said.

It was also asserted government forces had bombed and destroyed the insurgent airport at Palma, Mallorca Island.

A survey established definitely that the insurgents were not occupying all parts of University City, within the northwestern limits of Madrid. Government troops are holding the Puerta de Hierro sector and several university buildings.

The drizzling rains caused virtual cessation of front-line activities overnight. Artillery exchanges were resumed at noon, however, when the rain stopped.

SOVIET ENVOY SPEAKS
Marcel Rosenberg, the Soviet ambassador, said:

"I am profoundly moved by the gallant fight of the people."

"The barricades erected in Madrid are well against a form of savagery which shows no respect for humanity. Foreign planes manned by mercenaries kill women and children and destroy works of art."

"You are the defenders of democracy, the descendants of other defenders throughout the ages. The President of the republic, the Premier and the whole government are on your side. Your parliament has expressed full confidence in you."

"The enemy generals will always be rebels, although recognized by some foreign powers."

"I assure you you have the full confidence of every citizen of my country."

Owners Say 213 Idle at Pacific Ports; Hiring Halls Still Big Strike Issue

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—The three weeks' old maritime strike left more ships crippled at U.S. Pacific ports today, but settlement of an ominous San Francisco bay milk workers' dispute brightened the picture of other widespread labor troubles.

Shipowners recapitulated their figures on the number of vessels strike-bound and placed the total at 213. Previously, the figure had been set at 192.

Assistant Labor Secretary Edward F. McGrady, showing disappointment but not despair, labored anew to bring employers and unions representing 37,000 maritime workers around a peace conference table.

The unions' demand for control of hiring halls and employers' insistence on at least neutral control have driven peace efforts into a seemingly hopeless impasse.

MILK DISTRIBUTED
The milk workers' dispute caused the city governments of Oakland and Berkeley, with a combined population of about 400,000, to take over milk distribution plants yesterday to assure supply of the vital commodity.

Last night, after an all-day conference, settlement of the dispute, variously called a "strike" and a "lockout," was announced.

The milk dispute, along with others affecting Seattle workers and warehousemen, was not connected with the maritime strike.

Threat Evidence At Will Hearing

Toronto Judge Is Told How Late Mrs. A. J. Small Talked of Husband

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 20.—Testimony that Mrs. Theresa Small threatened in 1917, two years before his disappearance, to "get rid of" Ambrose J. Small, her millionaire husband, was given today when the non-jury Ontario Supreme Court trial was resumed in an action to upset the $2,000,000 will of the late Mrs. Small.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman said she had been visited daily by Mrs. Small, who tried to persuade her to be remarried in a Roman Catholic Church of which Chapman was a member.

Mrs. Chapman said she was an Anglican.

CANNOT ANSWER
"The reputation and character of Mrs. Small are being attacked," commented Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey, hearing the action. "It is unfortunate that this woman now dead cannot answer these attacks." He overruled a defence objection to the questioning.

"She said," testified Mrs. Chapman, "that she didn't get along with Mr. Small and was going to get rid of him. There was liquor on her breath. I told her not to talk so foolishly and she said there wouldn't be an ash left of him when she was through."

"It is interesting to see how far this woman will go," remarked Mr. Justice Jeffrey.

Handwriting evidence was concluded before Mrs. Chapman was called to the stand. One of three Toronto teachers of writing who gave the opinion yesterday that a holograph will, purportedly made out by Small in 1903, was forged, Charles R. Jarvis was cross-examined by T. N. Phelan, K.C., counsel for the executors of Mrs. Small's will.

"Did you ever read the German writer Schmetz on disputed handwriting?" queried Phelan.

"Yes," answered Jarvis.

"Well, I never did," said the attorney. "It is a name I coined this moment."

"I thought you meant Schmidt," said Jarvis.

"We, I never heard of him either," remarked Phelan, ending the cross-examination.

VOLUNTARY WITNESS
Mrs. Chapman, coming to the stand, described herself as a voluntary witness. She had not seen Mary Florence Small prior to the present trial.

Mr. Justice Jeffrey asked Mrs. Chapman why she did not tell Small details of the threat made by Mrs. Small. The answer was Mrs. Chapman had not taken the threats seriously.

"Search not only your memory but your conscience," suggested the judge. "What did you think Mrs. Small meant when she suggested

Tax Evasion Proves Costly

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Nov. 20.—First prosecution for refusal to pay the ultimate purchaser's 2 per cent provincial sales tax ended in police court here today with a Wetaskiwin, Alta., resident $18.25 poorer because of his failure to pay 12 cents tax on the purchase of a $6 hat a month ago.

"It seems a bit ridiculous," said Magistrate A. H. Gibson, when he sentenced the man to a fine of $15 and cost or thirty days' imprisonment.

there would be nothing left but an ash?" the woman answered.

The plaintiff in the present action, Mary Florence Small, examined by George Walsh, her counsel, said she talked to her brother Ambrose about a will in July, 1919, over the telephone. He said he would never see her or his sister, Gertrude, in want, Miss Small testified.

EASES DANGER
The unexpected development was declared by military commanders to have accomplished two results:

1. It lessened the danger of a hostile attack from the north.

2. It strengthened the position of the Suiyuan government by threatening occupation of the city, which has been considered a base for unfriendly Mongolian tribes.

Pailingmao has been reported the concentration point of invading forces, which are alleged to be sponsored by the Japanese. The campaign against the Suiyuan government, Chinese sources have asserted, is an attempt to spread Japanese influence westward from Manchukuo.

EXPLANATION BY COUGHLIN

Says Laity and Clergy Forced Him to Cease Political Activities in U.S.

Associated Press
Chicago, Nov. 20.—Rev. Charles E. Coughlin will say in next Monday's edition of "Social Justice" that he suspend activities of his National Union for Social Justice because of "a barricade built by no superior, but rather by the laity and the clergy to America."

Father Coughlin has announced discontinuance of his regular radio broadcasts. He made the decision after the presidential election, in which he campaigned for Representative William Lemke, Union Party candidate.

He points out as an example of lay opposition, "not to the sixteen principles of social justice, but to my person." Activities of the "Catholic Laymen's League of New York, which has attacked me more viciously than has any communist in America," continuing.

"The clerical attacks against my person have been more numerous, more reprehensible, yet, perhaps, characterized by no taint of malice."

"As an example of this type, permit me to cite the case of Monsignor John Ryan, paid employee of the New Deal government and spokesman for the Democratic National Committee."

"RECKLESS TALK"
Washington, Nov. 20.—Monsignor John A. Ryan said today a reference to him by Father Coughlin in a forthcoming article in "Social Justice" was "just an example of reckless talk."

CHINESE FORCE BACK MONGOLS

Suiyuan Troops Take Offensive and Surround City of Pailingmao

Kweilui, Suiyuan Province, China, Nov. 20.—Suiyuan provincial forces, suddenly taking the offensive against an alleged invasion, moved into position today around the city of Pailingmao.

Infantry and cavalry units established lines in the vicinity as Gen. Fu Tzu-yi's high command sought to stem a reported attack from Chahar provincials and Mongol irregulars.

The unexpected development was declared by military commanders to have accomplished two results:

1. It lessened the danger of a hostile attack from the north.

2. It strengthened the position of the Suiyuan government by threatening occupation of the city, which has been considered a base for unfriendly Mongolian tribes.

Pailingmao has been reported the concentration point of invading forces, which are alleged to be sponsored by the Japanese. The campaign against the Suiyuan government, Chinese sources have asserted, is an attempt to spread Japanese influence westward from Manchukuo.

London, Nov. 20.—Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, former Dominions Secretary, reappearance semi-publicly yesterday evening at a London philanthropic dinner and was given a tremendous reception.

Mr. Thomas resigned from the cabinet following a judicial inquiry into a leakage of budget information last April.

"I speak to you without any responsibilities," he said. "In other words, I am not revealing any cabinet secrets." The audience laughed.

Mr. Thomas, who has been living at Ferring-by-the-Sea, told a reporter he had nearly finished a book of reminiscences.

"I never intended to be hurried," he added. "I shall be in London nearly every week from now on."

THREE DIE IN GEORGIA FIRE

Associated Press

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 20.—Three persons trapped in a top floor music studio died and twelve were injured yesterday in a $200,000 fire in a five-story downtown building.

The bodies were identified as those of Mrs. J. Porter Smith, piano teacher and former radio artist known as Ruth Cathey; W. Terry Evans, twenty-three, and Miss Elizabeth Martin, twenty, music students.

The fire spread through the freight and passenger elevator shafts of the building occupied by the Cagle Piano Company, the Atlantic Conservatory of Music and a number of smaller studios.

Fish, oil, largely used in the paint industry, requires heat treatment to fit it to the paint manufacturer's needs.

Welsh Coal Plan For Dominion

Suggestion Is Canada Guarantee to Buy 1,000,000 Tons a Year

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 20.—The South Wales Trade Recovery and Expansion Committee is seeking to enlist Canada's aid in returning that area to prosperity. The committee urges that with a view to trade recovery in the Welsh mining valleys the Canadian government should be requested to guarantee to take a minimum of 1,000,000 tons of anthracite from Wales annually.

The committee consists of coal owners and industrial heads. In a memorandum submitted to the government, it further recommends: An import duty on foreign coke. Continuance of the shipping subsidy, with coastal shipping to be confined to British vessels.

Adoption of a national policy that the geographical situation of South Wales is eminently suitable for national reserves of grain and food, and that its import trade should be encouraged by this means.

New Bank Notes Next August

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—On the new bilingual notes of the Bank of Canada the portrait of King Edward VIII will be the only royal picture, it has been learned. On the present notes portraits of the late King George V, Queen Mary, King Edward as Prince of Wales, the Princess Royal, Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of York and the Duke of Kent appear on notes of different denominations.

The new bank notes will be out about August, next year, and a portrait of His Majesty will appear on all denominations except the $1,000 note, which will carry a portrait of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the $100 note, on which a likeness of Sir John A. Macdonald will appear. Sir John's picture is now on the $500 note, which will be discontinued.

BIG CHRISTMAS SALES FORESEEN

Season's Business in U.S. Will Be Largest Since 1929, Says Secretary of Commerce Roper

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 20.—Greatest United States Christmas business since 1929 is forecast by Commerce Secretary Roper.

Estimating holiday department store sales would be 15 per cent above last year's, he predicted yesterday they would total around $920,000,000. This would compare with $800,000,000 in 1929 and more than $1,000,000,000 in 1928.

Mr. Roper said reports from all sections indicated "marked advances" over last year, and that business generally would be "greater than for any like period since 1929."

New Stock In For Christmas

Upswing in Business Points to Big Season; Table Supplies Ready

With visions of a Christmas surpassing those of many previous years, retailers and wholesalers are laying in stocks of the seasonal supplies.

An upswing in trade backs their expectations, dealers say, and since increased luxury buying was noted last Christmas, indications are to still greater business this year.

Imported goods in bright packages from many far parts of the world are beginning to appear in wholesale houses and in retailers' windows.

For the table, China sends crystallized ginger in jars; England sends fancy biscuits, and Iraq sends dates, pitted and unpitted.

A brand of hydrated loose dates, retailing at 25 cents a pound, comes from California.

From California come a variety of table and cooking flaps. Italy supplies citron peel and olives, and Sicily sends filbert nuts. Walnuts from Pekin are expected here in a shipment tomorrow, and Japanese chestnuts have been on the market for several weeks. Pecan nuts have been received from Georgia and Brazil nuts from Brazil.

Imports from Spain, including raisins and almonds, will cost more this year than last because of the civil strife in that country. A small shipment of table raisins from California is on the market now, and further shipments are expected.

Less than half as many cranberries as were imported from the east will be brought here this year, wholesalers announce, but a large crop of western cranberries will fill the gap in the supply.

Bon-bons, fruit cordials, mince meat and green and red glazed cherries are on the market.

Turkey prices will drop six cents a pound in Seattle this season, it is expected, due to a bigger influx of Montana birds, but no Canadian prices have been quoted yet and dealers doubt that prices will drop there.

REPATRIATION OF SETTLERS URGED

Calgary, Nov. 20.—Demand of the Alberta British Settlers' Association that the British government use money designed for further immigration schemes toward repatriation of settlers in Canada who wished to return to their native land.

It was also resolved to press for assumption by the Hudson's Bay Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway of costs for repatriation of settlers they had brought out to settle company lands, and that future settlers be sponsored for the first five years by the companies.

Social Tests In The United States

Vatican City, Nov. 20.—Pears the United States may not always be exempt from serious social strife were expressed yesterday in the newspaper Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ.

The editor of the newspaper, Count Della Torre, commenting on an interview he obtained from Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, on his recent visit to the United States, said one could not believe the United States always would be free from such a struggle.

Florida Barring Out Transients

Associated Press

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 20.—The Florida motor patrol, conducting a "border blockade" against penniless transients, estimates that by this week-end it will have shunted from the state 2,000 hitch-hiking, rodding and flivver-driving itinerants. Governor Dave Sholtz, who ordered the blockade, said about 50,000 were turned back last season.

TEXTILE TRADE LIMITS URGED

Associated Press

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute of New York, told foreign trade representatives yesterday that if the present trend continues "Japan's textile imports will completely dominate the American markets within the next decade."

In an address he urged "mutual and practical" restrictions as an offset.

W. Cameron Forbes, former United States Ambassador to Japan, charged in a prepared address the "open door" policy "does not seem to have been observed in the conduct of affairs in Manchuria under the general direction of Japan."

"Things which competed with the Japanese industries have had pretty hard sledding and some have been compelled to move out," he asserted.

Body of J. Witcomb Found at Vancouver

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 20.—The nude body of a man found by provincial police late yesterday on the Point Grey shoreline of English Bay was identified in the evening as that of James Witcomb, sixty-year-old president of the Witcomb Importing Company here. Death was due to drowning, authorities said.

Police said the body, which had not been in the water long, had been washed ashore.

Clothing and valuables belonging to Witcomb were found some distance away along the shoreline.

A farewell tea was given Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilson at "Barnaby" in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McNab, who left on Friday for Victoria, en route to their home in India.

EXECUTION IN MANITOBA TODAY

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—Ian Murray Bryson, twenty-two-year-old convicted slayer of a Winnipeg policeman in a thirty-cent holdup, was hanged early today at the Headingley jail, twelve minutes after he had made no statement at the last.

Bryson was convicted last June 9 of the murder of Constable Charles Gillis, shot down shortly after the holdup of a downtown service station January 24.

Evidence at the trial showed that during a scuffle with Constable Gillis, who with another policeman had answered a call to the service station, Bryson was discharged a revolver. Gillis was wounded in the stomach. The other constable captured the youthful gunman.

Knight, British Columbia government veterinary inspector, is investigating the deaths of several valuable dairy cows, believed poisoned by eating weeds which have attained an advanced stage of development owing to the long fall. Former Spanish Prince Killed

Alonso, Cousin of Ex-king, Loses Life When Insurgent Plane Crashes

Associated Press

London, Nov. 20.—Prince Alonso of Bourbon-Orleans, son of the Infante Alfonso of Spain, who joined the Spanish Fascist air force, was killed in a forced landing near Madrid, a friend of his family announced today.

Alonso—first cousin of former King Alfonso and a nephew of Queen Marie of Roumania—left London October 31 with his elder brother, Prince Alvaro, announcing they were going to Lisbon for a holiday.

The Infante Beatrice, their mother, was prostrated in a London hotel by the news of her son's death. Alonso's father was reported in the United States.

First information did not give details of the young man's death.

A friend of the family disclosed today the two had offered their services to commanders of the insurgent air force, and were accepted. The whereabouts of Alvaro were not made known.

Alonso was the second son of the Infante Alfonso and the Infanta Beatrice. He was born in Madrid May 28, 1912. His brother was born in 1910.

BEER, WHISKY PRICES GIVEN

Sloan Denies Opposition Charges of Big Profits

Associated Press

Suggestions by Opposition members that brewers of British Columbia were making big profits because the government was paying too much for beer and that charges for imported whisky were too high, were denied in the Legislature last night by Attorney-General Sloan.

Dealing with beer prices Mr. Sloan made an analysis of official Dominion statistics which indicated the average cost of making a barrel of beer was $15.54, taking into account the interest on investments, wages, cost of material and all other factors.

British Columbia, he said, pays $17.60 per barrel of draft beer, the lowest of all provinces except Quebec and $14.80 less $2.50 return on the bottle for bottled beer, the lowest except for Ontario and Quebec.

With regard to imported whiskies, Mr. Sloan quoted the official costs on three brands showing that British Columbia was paying from $2 to 36 less per case than the state of Washington.

Twelve Face Trial In Philadelphia

Associated Press

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—A federal grand jury yesterday indicted twelve men prominent in the city's financial and legal affairs following investigation of the Philadelphia Company for Guaranteeing Mortgages.

The company failed for $132,000,000 in January, 1933.

The indictments charge the company officers committed fraud on investors in mortgage bonds guaranteed by the concern, by withholding from them the fact that prior mortgage issues were in default.

Ore Plans Given Praise

Associated Press

The provincial government's plan to establish ore-sampling plants at Frimley and Nelson to assist small lone mining operators drew favorable comment from both sides of the Legislature last night.

In moving second reading of the bill, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, stated the plants would cost $25,000 each and would be in charge of government mining engineers who would co-operate with the small mine holders and advise them in their operations.

Premier Pattullo said he thought it would be of particular value to the vast northland of the province, now only sparsely developed, where there are big mining opportunities.

R. W. Bruhn, Salmon Arm, and W. J. Asselstine, Atlin, both praised the scheme as a forward step in provincial assistance for the mining industry.

A Healthy Sign

IT IS TYPICAL OF PROGRESSIVE Vancouver that fifty members of that city's Junior Board of Trade should come over to Victoria to see for themselves British Columbia's Legislature at work. It betokens an interest in public affairs, the dispatch of the business of the people of the province, which is highly commendable. That it gave Premier Pattullo more than ordinary pleasure to receive them and, as it is his wont, to do the honors, can be taken for granted. And he gave them this advice:

Young men who want to be of service to their province should join some political group. In the field of practical politics a young man can make his opinion felt most strongly. Get into a political organization. It doesn't matter of what stripe—if you want really to work for British Columbia. Not enough interest is taken in nominating conventions at present. Perhaps 200 nominate a candidate to try to capture 40,000 votes.

The Premier struck the right note. If there is one thing upon which Communism, Fascism, or any other 'ism thrives it is indifference, which, in most cases, means ignorance. Happily for Canada there is an individualism which makes for healthy citizenship. But there is a tendency at times to "let George do it."

Mr. Pattullo obviously realizes this danger. His counsel to the young men from Vancouver came from a wealth of experience—experience gained in a hard school. It is good, too, that a government, especially one with a very large majority, should be watched by keen critics, the more the better. No actor is at his best playing to a sparsely-filled house. This may be stretching the metaphor; but the implication remains.

Where Shall the People Live?

THE TRAGIC DILEMMA of major nations, confronting the breakdown of ancient diplomatic methods and facing prospect of war too dreadful to contemplate, may find its only solution in the cold figures of the statistician.

Birth rates; death rates; migration rates; census results; these are such dry commonplace that many push them aside as unrelated to the great drama of international tensions. Yet here lie the basic facts that may lend understanding of present world problems.

Half the world's population buys next to nothing. Hundreds of millions of people, living in India and China, are scarcely able to keep body and soul together. Half the world's no market whatever for the world's goods. The people exist at such a low level as to provide retiring president of the Population Association of America, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, vice president and statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, cites these population figures as holding the key to the dilemma of Europe's simmering cauldron of international fears, jealousies, and suspicions. Although at present this other half of the world buys practically nothing, they constitute the world's largest potential reservoir of purchasing power, Dr. Dublin points out.

"Would it not directly benefit our country, England, France and the other industrially developed nations, if by some magic, the standard of life of these submerged peoples could be raised?" he asks. "Within each nation there exist vast numbers of people who need additional food, shelter and clothing. If they could become effective as well as potential customers, idle factory wheels could start to turn and the unemployed on a large scale could find socially useful work. To help raise living standards throughout the world would seem the part of wisdom and a profitable adventure even from the most selfish point of view."

Crowding of people in the vile slums of thronged cities, and the need for room for homes for growing families is commonly cited as the driving force behind the aggressive attitudes in such nations as Japan, Italy and Germany. That it is really the true cause is doubted by the population expert who finds the crowding much worse in England and in peace-loving Holland and Belgium. The very fact that, while crying need for expansion, these leaders are strenuously urging an increase in the birthrate, points to a fallacy in the situation.

The bogey of a human race grown so numerous that the food of the world cannot sustain it is no longer fearful to population experts. Today we know better. The trouble with the world today is not in the numbers of her people, but possibly with the way they are distributed over the face of the globe, with the numbers occupied in certain types of labor, with the distribution of their wealth, or with the long-continued tendency for better classes to reduce their numbers while the biological and economically less desirable are increasing. Investigations along such lines would prove far from academic or sterile, Dr. Dublin concludes.

What Funny Ideas!

COMMENTING ON THE PURCHASE by the new owner of The Toronto Globe of The Toronto Mail and Empire—one formerly, but not in recent years, traditionally Liberal and the latter traditionally implacably Tory—The Vancouver Daily Province says of the transaction: "In a sense it is a mingling of oil and water, for The Globe is traditionally Liberal, while The Mail and Empire is traditionally Conservative. However, party journalism is pretty much a thing of the past in Canada and the amalgamation which has just been announced probably marks its end."

How our Mainland contemporary arrives at its conclusion that "party journalism" probably has come to its end by the amalgamation of The Globe and The Mail and Empire we are not able to say. The Vancouver Province gives expression to extraordinary ideas at times, arousing the speculation as to their origin. But the one to which we have referred is more than ordinarily humorous. At the back of our mind is another idea, however, and that is that there is in Toronto a newspaper called The Toronto Star, with a daily average circulation of around 250,000, the largest of any newspaper in Canada—and The Star is not an "if and but" newspaper; it is plain, honest-to-goodness Liberal, naturally reserving to itself the right at all times to criticize when it considers criticism justified.

The combined circulation of The Globe and The Mail and Empire, incidentally, is just about 50,000 less daily than The Star.

Well Conducted

AS A MODEL OF BREVITY AND business-like procedure, last night's annual meeting of the Victoria Liberal Association, attended by several hundreds of enthusiastic citizens, might well be copied by other organizations, political or otherwise. Mr. McGivern, who already had been elected President by acclamation, comes of good Canadian Liberal stock—his late father was an intimate friend and confidante of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and held a ministerial post without portfolio in the first King government—and seems to be able to carry on the family tradition with the ease and confidence of an ardent campaigner.

The speeches of Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, and Mr. Byron Johnson, M.L.A., were short and to the point. Neither found it necessary to be fulsome to drive home their views. While he has said it before, and while it has appeared in the newspapers all over Canada, Mr. Hart reminded his large audience that the credit of British Columbia now ranks as high—higher than most—as any province in Canada. Mr. Johnson did well, too, to emphasize the fact that the west, particularly British Columbia, is paying too large an economic tribute to the east. He wants redress, and redress is overdue.

An Approved Decision

MAJORITY OPINION IN VICTORIA undoubtedly supports the private bills committee of the Legislature in its refusal to the city of the right to contract for selective logging operations on the Sooke Lake watershed.

For one thing, there was doubt as to whether the proposed contract would not be a price in keeping with the market. It had been testified that prices considerably higher were being currently realized from the sale of timber on adjoining areas.

More important is the general feeling that no impairment of the watershed should be tolerated. The public has not been convinced of the elimination of the risk of such impairment. The watershed from which the water supply for Victoria and the adjoining municipalities is derived has been jealously guarded from a health as well as supply standpoint. There is always a danger in the relaxation, even for a limited period, of such protection. We have learned that public bodies in the past have too often been careless and lacking in foresight regarding the impairment of natural resources for some temporary benefit. It is encouraging that public opinion in this instance has thus shown itself jealous of the people's heritage.

Justified Protection

GREAT BRITAIN HAS MADE UP her mind on one tariff policy about which there will be no quibble among even the most ardent free traders. She is going to impose 100 per cent ad valorem duty, as from December 31, next, until July 31, 1937, on articles of all kinds that might be used as souvenirs during next year's coronation ceremonies.

These include articles representing the King, any member of the royal family, any royal emblem, any article associated with the coronation or the flag of any country in the British Empire, and flags resembling any such flags.

British manufacturers are entitled to this protection. Only a little while ago it was reported, and there must have been good ground for the complaint, that Union Jacks, made in Japan, were being imported into Britain anticipatory of next year's momentous event. Britain is doing well, generally speaking, these days, so it is no time to hinder any phase of her progress.

Notes

No matter how great a man becomes, his old home town always has its doubts. Roosevelt did not carry Hyde Park.

Printing the Bible in the form of a novel is proving to be a profitable publishing undertaking. It is not necessary to share profits with the author.

"Storks are slow in leaving England this year." Perhaps they are frightened by rumors of sweatshop conditions for their kind in Italy and Northern Ontario.

The estimated population of the United States at July 1 was 128,429,000, according to a report received from the Bureau of Census. On July 1, 1935, the population was 127,521,000, and on the same date in 1930 it was 123,091,000. Thus in five years it has increased by nearly half the population total of Canada.

Across the Bay

Mr. Speaker has a new chair—in which Mr. Pooley sees rare possibilities—Mr. Pearson makes good use of his night—And Mr. Sloan introduces an old friend.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

NEW CHAIR

A NEW CHAIR, made of old walnut, with sky-blue leather cushions, supported, rather uncomfortably, the trim figure of Mr. Speaker Perry when the Legislature opened Thursday night. Quick to spy it and to see in it interesting possibilities was Mr. Pooley, who had seen eight previous speakers and eight previous chairs, who knew what they usually meant in the hard game of practical politics.

So Mr. Pooley rose, with a familiar glitter in his eye, in the manner of a man who has retired already from active politics and can afford a little joke even in these last hectic hours. It was the historic privilege of speakers in British Parliaments, said he, to have a chair made to their own design, to sit on it once in the House, and then take it home as a souvenir. He was glad Mr. Perry had such a nice chair, but what did its introduction mean? Only one thing to the experienced mind of Mr. Pooley. It meant an election before next session, of course. Otherwise, why was Mr. Speaker introducing it now, on the last night of the present session?

While there was yet time, before the waves of the election perhaps washed most of this House away, Mr. Pooley wanted to take the opportunity to say that a fine and impartial speaker Mr. Perry had been.

Immediately the Premier joined in this praise. Growing more genial as the session grows more ragged, the Premier repeated his old joke of Opposition days, chiding Mr. Pooley for referring to the chair "which Mr. Speaker sits in."

"You should never," said the Premier, "use a proposition to end a sentence with," and those of the members who knew what a proposition was, seeing the point, enjoyed it immensely; even though many had heard it before. It was all very cozy. Mr. Harold Winch even announced that when the C.C.F. took office it would continue Mr. Perry as Speaker.

SPEAKER SPEAKS

EVEN THE CALM dignity of Mr. Speaker had to melt under all this cheerful warmth, and, breaking the rule that no Speaker must speak, Mr. Perry proceeded to deliver a witty speech which would have done credit to the Mother of Parliaments. He quoted Omar Kayhan off-hand, he dabbled with British history, King Charles's arrest of the five members and the immortal statement of the Speaker on that occasion that he was "simply the servant of the House. As the servant of the House Mr. Speaker acknowledged these ceremonies, but added that his chair had nothing to do with the interesting possibilities visualized by his friend, Mr. Pooley.

BIRTHDAY

THAT, with birthday greetings and a big bouquet of government chrysanthemums for Dr. Sutherland, was the only human passage of the day. Most of it was devoted to dull routine, and then, suddenly, late at night, to one of the most competent and acrimonious debates in years. It was Mr. Pearson's night, and he made good use of it. He had evidently prepared for the occasion and delivered on labor matters a smashing speech, which seemed torn out of his heart. A real friend of labor, the best friend it has ever had in office here, Mr. Pearson cried out in agony of spirit that labor was getting into the hands of dangerous leaders who didn't want to help it, who only wanted to destroy the present economic system, no matter who suffered in the process.

He started with detailed notes, sticking close to them, but as he got going he let himself out and ascended almost into oratory. Strange contrast, this, to the Nanaimo business man who came here in 1926 and spoke jerkily, ill at ease, in words we didn't understand, about a coming depression we didn't believe in, about labor reforms which we thought impossible. To the ablest administrator known here in modern times, and perhaps, the most conscientious practicing politician we have, the House gave a thunderous reception.

But the Socialist opposition, which usually considers him a friend, was bitterly disappointed. Mr. Connell looked on him more in sorrow than in anger. Mr. Price thought he was seeing red bogies, the Winches, father and son, denounced him, and finally the House rejected the younger Winch's bill which caused all the trouble—a measure defining workers' rights in strikes.

LIQUOR

THE ONLY other thing of interest during the day was the mention of liquor. This sounded familiar, and the House pricked up its ears. It is no reflection on the sobriety of the hon. members to say that anything to do with liquor invariably makes them prick up their ears. There was a time, indeed, in the days of our sweet innocence, before we had heard of the depression and of economics and of Mr. McGee, when liquor, officially speaking, and in a dry, abstract sense, was the chief business of this House. Later we have heard much about it, our minds being on higher, duller problems.

Mr. Sloan apparently was accepting Mr. Savage's challenge to debate the price and cost of government beer and liquor. His figures were intended to show that the price is reasonable, and a sensitive man might well have burst into tears of sympathy for the brewers when he heard how little they make.

An effective opposition would have been quick to point out that Quebec gets cheap beer because of big sales and few breweries and that British Columbia could do the same if it didn't insist on supporting approximately six times as many breweries as it needs, or can really afford.

BEE SPIRIT IN SAANICH

From The Sidney Review

The spirit of co-operation is by no means dead in the area of the Saanich Peninsula and Gulf Islands. On the Gulf Islands at various points wonderful community spirit is shown in the building of community halls, the clearing of school playgrounds, the cutting of the winter's supply of wood, etc. On the Saanich Peninsula we witnessed a site-filling bee organized by friends of J. C. Lambert, who has been in ill-health for some considerable time, under the guidance of the bee-keepers' club, known to all as "Mutts and Jeff." Here a willing band of volunteer workers filled the site in a few hours—to the surprise of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert—and created a spirit of community co-operation that long will linger in the memory of all concerned.

Yes, if there were more such bees people would be stung!

Letters to The Editor

600 HELPED ON PRAIRIES

To the Editor:—All those who contributed toward the carload of fruit and vegetables for the drought-stricken area of the prairie sent recently to Carlyle, Saskatchewan, will be interested to learn that the car reached its destination and distribution was made of its contents to some 600 needy cases.

I received a letter today to this effect from Rev. J. MacLachlan of Carlyle, convenor of the local voluntary relief committee, which took care of the distribution. On behalf of the community and district, he wishes to express sincere thanks to the donors.

THIS AN ORIENTAL COLONY?

To the Editor:—May I reply to Mr. Bird's letter, in which he criticizes me for having put "Missourian" on the spot.

Mr. Bird states that "surely Mr. Winch knows that he had no right to dictate the correspondent's letter." Obviously Mr. Bird is a second Mark Twain and doesn't know it when the latter said: "The report of my death has been greatly exaggerated," as Mr. Bird is replying for Missourian, who for obvious reasons, does not care to reply himself.

I quote Mr. Bird: "As regards P. K. Winch's statement about the C.C.F. and the Orientals, I think the C.C.F. have the only intelligent policy of dealing with this question."

The answer to the above is that Mr. Winch, M.P.P. from Vancouver (funny coincidence) and his C.C.F. official newspaper almost succeeded in the drying hours of the last session in slipping a bill through the House granting the Orientals their full franchise.

Now let us see what this would mean if the bill had passed: The present Oriental population is 1 to 9 per capita.

In five years will be 1 to 8.
In ten years 1 to 7.
In fifteen years 1 to 6.
In twenty years 1 to 4.
In twenty-five years 1 to 2.
In thirty years 1 to 1.

Before this time the white industrial population will be forced to evacuate this province by the tens of thousands.

Is this what Mr. Bird and the C.C.F. Party considers a solution for the Oriental problem? Does he want British Columbia and the whole Pacific Coast to become an Oriental colony?

If Mr. Bird and the C.C.F. Party does not want these conditions, let them come out and say so.

Mr. Editor, I think it is time the little third international party (the C.C.F.) should be exposed to its own rank and file. Their so-called international Socialism and the brotherhood of man is the slogan and disguise used by all the anti-British voters in Canada.

P. K. WINCH.

DISAGREES WITH LIBERAL VIEWS ON SPAIN

To the Editor:—From the viewpoint of every Socialist, whether he be of the red, pink or bluish variety, your editorial relative to the Spanish situation are very good. Nay, they are superb.

From the viewpoint of every thinking Liberal, your efforts along this line, especially that of November 14, are rather provoking.

For some time I have labored under the delusion that the Victoria Daily Times was a Liberal newspaper. I was of the opinion that it stood for democracy, progress and Christianity. I had even believed that it was opposed to class hate and class dictatorship. Your recent editorials have convinced me of my error.

I fear you have been badly "taken in" by the revolutionary propaganda which infests such magazines as the New Republic, The Nation, etc. Do not-Liberal partisan sheets such as this constitute the only possible subject matter for your literary efforts?

Apparently you have subscribed to such patent lies as: "The present government of Spain was democratically elected by 85 per cent of the electorate." Perhaps you failed to realize the real truth hiding behind this crackpot utterance of the creatures of Moscow. Certainly, the government was elected by 85 per cent of those entitled to vote, if by that you realize that 15 per cent of the electorate failed to vote for any party. The 85 per cent who bothered to vote at all, voted for both the Rightists and the Leftists, with a small majority for the former. In the "popular vote" the Reds did not even get a majority.

The best-known intellectual of Spain, the great philosopher, Unamuno, rector of the University of Salamanca, has this to say of those whom you support editorially: "The university, while not mixing in politics because of its spiritual mission extending through centuries of tradition, feels itself in duty bound to express in a virile manner its condemnation of the crimes of the 'Loyalists' of Spain."

If your present preference for the "Proletarian" cause continues, I prophesy that the Communist B.C. Workers' News will become extinct.

Here's Simple Way to Curb a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving
"ASPIRIN" Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to curb a cold is this: Two "Aspirin" tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The "Aspirin" you take internally will act to combat fever, cold pains and the cold itself. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is quick, effective and ends the taking of strong medicines for a cold.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Saanich Bills Paid; Surplus Indicated

Municipal Council Proud of Progressive Financial Statement; Interest Charges and Sinking Fund Instalment Paid

The Saanich Council this year will wind up its affairs with a small surplus on hand and all accounts, including bank overdraft and debenture interests, will be paid off.

This was the indication of a progressive financial report for ten months submitted to the council yesterday evening and described by Reeve Crouch as the best report of the municipality since 1931.

While several of the municipal accounts, including public works, have been overspent, savings in other departments and revenue increases will more than offset this loss, the report showed.

The report showed municipal finances had exceeded the expectations of the councillors and outstanding among the features of the statement was the increase in revenue from all sources.

It was indicated the estimated 33 per cent of tax collections would be exceeded by the end of the year, the figure being 82.29 for the ten-month period.

Total receipts to October 31 were $380,526, as against $377,949 for the same period last year.

MORE CASH

Other features of the report were: Cash in hand at the Bank of Montreal on October 31 was $20,129.11. Last year it was $11,334.98. This year's figure being an increase of $8,794.13.

The percentage of tax collections at October 31 this year was 82.29 per cent, as compared with 80.57 per cent last year. The estimate of 83 per cent for the year will be exceeded by December 31.

The annual overdraft at the bank, amounting to $170,000, was fully paid off on October 10, and no further borrowings will be necessary to meet our present estimated expenditure.

PURCHASES DOWN

While receipts from tax sales costs are below the estimate, the amount short is offset by tax sale purchases which are $1,530.03 below that estimated.

Total receipts already received ($380,526.43), together with those anticipated for November and December, will amount to slightly over the estimated ($400,257.60) for the year.

Expenditures to October 31 amount to $386,059.29, as compared with $371,515.29 last year; $15,201.39 was borrowed last year for relief in addition to the above, while this year there has been no such borrowing.

Roads and bridges expenditure is over the estimate for the year by $1,639.40. This amount, together with possibly another $1,500, could be financed out of anticipated receipts.

Interest has been paid in full on all the corporation debentures, both outstanding and held in the sinking funds amounting to $42,950, while $4,186.75 has been placed to the credit of sinking funds, on account of annual instalment.

REEVE PROUD

In commenting on the statement, Reeve Crouch said it was one of which the council could be justifiably proud. He noted particularly the reduction of the bank overdraft this year, the paying off of this overdraft and the meeting of all sinking fund interest charges.

Councillor W. R. Woods, chairman of the finance committee, remarked on the encouraging state of municipal finances, saying it augured well for next year's budget.

The success of this year's financing may indicate further encouragement for next year, inasmuch as the 1937 council may find it possible for extended expenditures on much-needed road works. Although realizing the need for this type of work this year, the councillors have been limited to small appropriations in their respective wards, and have been unable to achieve anything of a permanent nature.

In addition to the general improvement, the council next year will be without social service burdens which they met this year, but which were lifted from them at the current sitting of the Legislature. The municipal saving on this account next year will be about $10,000.

Officials said, however, it was too early to contemplate what these reductions might mean on next year's estimates.

An inch was originally as long as a man's thumb is broad.

Busses For Cars Issue Raised

Johnson Mentions Chance of Change in Victoria Soon

The possibility of busses replacing street cars in Victoria within a few years was referred to by Byron Johnson, Liberal, Victoria, speaking in the Legislature last night on the New Westminster bus bill.

The bill went through 29 to 11 after an attack on the scheme by the Opposition. Dugald MacPherson, Liberal, Grand Forks—Greenwood, voted with C.C.F. and Social Constructive members against the measure.

Under the bill, the government will grant $60,000 to New Westminster, which will compensate the B.C. Electric Railway with a payment of $60,000 and will then remove the tracks along streets at the approach to the new Fraser River bridge. All street car operators put out of work by the scheme are to be given jobs elsewhere, either by the company or by New Westminster.

Mr. Johnson, during debate on the measure, said he hoped when busses replaced street cars in Victoria, probably a few years hence, the men would get the same kind of a deal.

Ernest Winch, C.C.F., Burnaby, led the Opposition attack, claiming the bill should be called the "B.C. Electric Bill," because it would compensate the company for equipment that was antiquated. If their cars were not out of date, they could be used elsewhere and the company would suffer no loss. He also said the bill was being passed over the heads of the people of New Westminster, who did not give it the necessary three-fifths vote.

S. S. McKee, Liberal, Point Grey, explained that there was some doubt among legal talent as to whether it actually was a money by-law, and needed the majority. The vote was actually in favor of the measure by a 400 straight majority.

No Adjustment In School Salaries

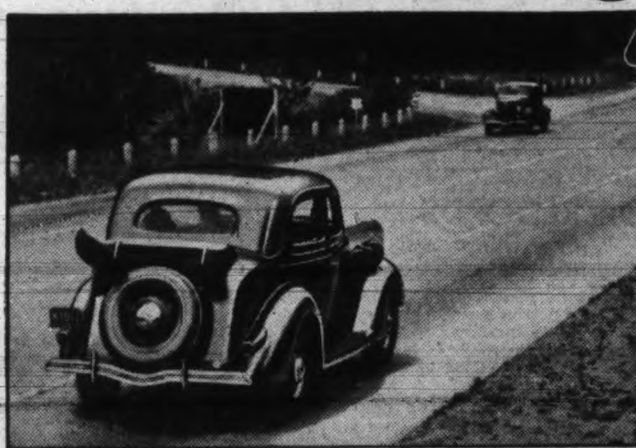

Cumberland, Nov. 20.—Cumberland City Council turned down the recommendation of the board of school trustees that teachers on the staffs of the local schools should have their salaries adjusted to bring them up to schedule, less the 25 per cent cut which has been in operation since 1933. According to the recommendation of the board, the teaching staff have not only taken a 25 per cent cut but have also forgone the increases to which they were entitled to, with the result that in some cases a loss of considerably more than 25 per cent has been experienced. The board was of the opinion that by bringing the salaries up to the scheduled rate and retaining the 25 per cent cut they would be making a fair adjustment that would react more especially to the benefit of the lower salaries.

4 OUT OF EVERY 5 MILES YOU DRIVE ARE "STOP-AND-GO." Costly—unless your gas has these 3 kinds of power—in perfect balance

EVEN when driving near home, you average 30 stops a day. Going to the stores, making business calls, visiting your friends. That's what runs up gas bills.

For economy in today's driving, your gasoline needs 3 different kinds of power—just as your car needs 3 shifts of gears.

You need one kind of power for quick STARTS, another for fast PICKUP and hill climbing, another for STEADY ECONOMICAL RUNNING.

First to recognize the need in today's "stop-and-go" driving, Shell engineers, after years of research, combined these 3 different kinds of power in one fuel—Super-Shell, the first truly balanced gasoline.

You'll find Super-Shell at over 30,000 neighborhood Shell stations from coast to coast. Try a tankful today and start saving on gasoline.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Relieved.

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way That Calls for No Ugly Trumpets, Phones Or Other Instruments

To have catarrhal deafness is very annoying and embarrassing. People who are deaf in this way are generally mighty sensitive on this subject. And yet many catarrhal deaf folks carry around instruments that call attention to their infirmity. Therefore people who are hard of hearing, who suffer from head noises or who are actually deaf from catarrhal trouble, will be glad to know of a simple treatment that can be easily made up at home for a few cents cost that is really quite efficient in relieving the disagreeable deafness and head noises caused by catarrh.

From any druggist get one ounce of Parmit (double strength). Take this home and put it into a simple syrup made of 1/2 pint of hot water and a little ordinary sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This treatment should by tonic action reduce the inflammation in the middle ear, that a catarrhal condition would be likely to cause, and with the inflammation gone the distressing head noises, headaches, cloudy thinking and that dull feeling in the ears should gradually disappear. Anyone who suffers from catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises should give Parmit a trial. It is pleasant to take and is quite inexpensive.

LOOKING INTO STATE HEALTH

Howard Costigan, Head of Commonwealth Group in Washington, Is Here

Howard Costigan of Seattle, "the man behind the political scene in Washington State" was in Victoria to-day looking over the provincial insurance bill.

Mr. Costigan is executive director of the Washington Commonwealth Federation, powerful progressive block which has grabbed control of the dominant Democratic party in the state.

"In its direction it is the most progressive step ever taken in the Pacific Northwest," Mr. Costigan said of the health bill. "In Washington we shall undoubtedly be guided by it."

Mr. Costigan, who looks very much like Lawrence Tibbets, famous movie star and singer, attended the session of the legislative assembly yesterday afternoon.

"The term Liberal here seems to be somewhat misused," he said, "the majority of the House were concerned with legislation which would shame right wing Democrats in our state. Even a banker in Seattle would not dare to raise the question of a subsidy to a private company without gaining some control of it."

The executive director of the Washington Commonwealth Federation came to Victoria after the semi-annual convention of the party and predicted that the W.C.F. as it is known in Seattle, would become the dominant political force in the state and would elect the next governor.

The Democratic party had won ninety-two out of ninety-nine seats in the state legislature, he said, and some of the legislation which Democratic members of the W.C.F. would push included:

Public ownership of the cement industry; public ownership of the wholesale gasoline business which Mr. Costigan said would reduce the price of gas to 13 cents a gallon; public ownership of the ferries, by making them part of the highway system; enactment of legislation for slum clearing and low cost housing projects; state subsidies to farmers for co-operative warehouses, canneries, and fertilizer plants; abolition of all students fees to colleges and also of compulsory military training.

Bills would also be passed, Mr. Costigan said, to set up a state labor relations board similar to the national labor relations board. The registration of all lobbyists would also be asked for, and the protection of consumers would be sought by a state bureau of standards which would test "any goods on request and publish the results in the same way as legal notices."

Mr. Costigan has a Canadian background, as Sir John Costigan, famous political figure in the Dominion, was a close relative of his.

Mr. Costigan with his secretary, W. Pennock, is staying at the Empress Hotel.

NEW TIMBER PLAN MADE

Government Withdraws Scheme to Control Crown-grant Reforestation

Leading timber operators of Vancouver Island have entered a one-year agreement with the provincial government to burn slash under the direction of the forest branch and protect young growth on lands contiguous to cut-over areas, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, announced in the Legislature last night when he withdrew an amendment to the Forest Act, which would have given the government full control over reforestation measures on crown granted lands.

In the next year the agreement provides, the timber operators will endeavor to work out an arrangement with forestry officials to ensure proper reforestation of the cut-over areas.

The timber men, in representations to the government, maintained that the proposed change in the forest act was too sweeping, and they had not had an opportunity to study it fully. It might have a serious effect upon the titles of their holdings and their market value.

Ernest Bakewell, Social Constructive, Mackenzie, led an Opposition attack on the withdrawal of the amendment, claiming it had appeared the government was finally going to let the forest branch do something worthwhile in reforestation and had then decided not to. This drew hot retorts from the government benches, which explained that specific measures could be worked out for presentation to the House next year.

START GIVEN REVALUATION

Saanich Takes Steps to Launch Review of Building Values

Preliminary steps for the revaluation of Saanich homes which will form the basis for 1938 taxation were taken by the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

The council authorized advertising for an applicant for the position of valuator who will revalue all dwellings within the confines of the municipal boundary.

The revaluation, which is tantamount to a reassessment, is expected to get under way early in the new year and will probably extend well into 1937.

The move was the result of claims advanced by members of the council that assessments on old homes were too high and general revision of assessments on newer dwellings was necessary.

The plan will touch only on building and will not deal with land values.

A similar operation was carried out in the municipality nine years ago but in recent years complaints regarding the building values had grown more numerous.

The revaluation is aimed primarily at satisfying these complaints and at the same time keep assessments in line with changing conditions in building values.

Greater Victoria Plan Is Opposed

Municipal reaction to the suggestion of a Greater Victoria as advanced at a recent municipal and city conference was not very favorably received, Councillor E. C. Warren, Ward Two, and Reeve Crouch reported to the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

Councillor Warren said his opinion was that the municipal representatives were satisfied with their relative positions and showed no inclination towards a merger. The plan for an inter-municipal committee, however, had been supported and was awaiting approval from councils concerned.

The formation of the committee was approved by resolution and Reeve Crouch and Councillors L. C. Hagan, Ward Six, and E. C. Warren, Ward Two, were appointed Saanich representatives on the committee.

Several Are Hurt In Mosley Clash

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Nov. 20.—Several persons were injured yesterday evening, one of them seriously, when anti-Fascists clashed with members of Sir Oswald Mosley's Blackshirts who were holding a meeting at their Leicester headquarters.

Eight Guilty At Siberia Trial

Seven Russians and German Admit Sabotage; Face Death Sentence

Novosibirsk, Western Siberia, Nov. 20.—Eight men—seven Russians and a German engineer—faced death sentences today on charges of anti-Communist sabotage.

The government announced yesterday the men had pleaded guilty to deliberate attempts to wreck the great Kemerovo coal mines which cost the lives of fourteen miners.

A ninth defendant pleaded guilty in part to the offence, for which the penalty is death.

The prosecution accused Leon Trotsky, exiled former Commissar of War, and German Fascists of conspiring directly with the nine defendants.

The chief defendants were E. Sticking, a German citizen; L. Pashenkov, chief engineer of the mines; and I. Noskov. The others were P. Shubin, M. Kuroff, I. Lashenko, V. Andrieff, and I. Novikov, and N. Leonenko who admitted "partial guilt."

LINK WITH ZINOVIEFF
The trial was the first of a series expected to result from recent arrests in Moscow and Leningrad. The indictment linked it with the trial of the once powerful Gregory Zinovieff and Leon Kameneff who, with fourteen others, were executed recently after pleas of guilty to charges of participating in an alleged Trotskyist plot against the Soviet regime.

Another alleged conspirator, named Drobnis, is slated to be brought to trial later. He is alleged to have instructed the others in sabotage work.

EVIDENCE HEARD
Taking of testimony began today in the trial of the eight men. The hearing was expected to last three or four days.

Sticking, the German, was charged by public prosecutors with acting under the direct orders of a "foreign intelligence service."

All of the defendants, the prosecution asserted, were motivated by desires to restore capitalism in Russia.

Constable To Pay Damages

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 20.—Albert Hilton Johnson, Vancouver saw-filer, was awarded $150 damages against Constable Kenneth Harrison by Mr. Justice Fisher in the B.C. Supreme Court yesterday for assault.

Evidence at the trial disclosed that Constable Harrison struck Johnson in the face after the latter had used abusive language to the officer.

Mr. Justice Fisher ruled there had been an assault by the officer.

HAPPY VALLEY

The Happy Valley Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday evening, Mrs. Strathern presiding. Plans were made for first aid classes for boys.

A round-table discussion was held on ninth grade problems. P. E. George of Victoria leading the discussion.

At the weekly dance held in Luxton Hall Wednesday evening statue and spot-dance awards were made to Misses Mary McKay, Peggy Wyatt, Gladys Pea, Frances Wale, Mrs. George Duncan, Ray Stephens, Frank Rhode, Stan Wilkins, Neil McKay and Charlie Carnegie. Old-time dance music was supplied by Shorty Bowers' orchestra.

Reeve Crouch and Councillor John Watson, Ward One, and H. D. Cotton, Ward Five, were appointed members of the Saanich court of revision of the voters' list by the municipal council yesterday evening. The court will sit on December 10, at 10 a.m.

Protection For Newspapermen

Associated Press

Kinsmen at Amusing Party

"Ladies' Night" Stunts Are Much Enjoyed

Topsy-turvy arrangements under which the usual conventions were reversed wherever possible, added much to the fun of the "ladies' night" dinner dance held by the Kinsmen Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

At the dinner tables, the guests found the silverware set backwards. The menu was printed in reversed order and coffee was served first, followed by ice cream, which in turn was followed by the main course.

The programme called for Mrs. B. E. Nickells to answer a toast to the ladies before it was proposed by Dr. R. J. Nodwell. Favors, salt-and-pepper shakers in the form of tiny cream and sugar sets, were presented to the ladies during the evening.

William Harkness intrigued the pathos with his mystifying exhibition. Mr. Cecil Luckhart, president, presided. Those on the committee in charge were: Mr. J. E. Sanders, chairman; Mr. Patrick Mulcahy and Mr. William Dillabough.

Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roper of Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Art Mann, Mr. Hubert Brown, Mr. Herman Brown, Mr. Lionel Goode, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cochran, Miss Brown and Miss Thorpe, all of Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Luckhart, Miss Mona Kelpin, Mr. Victor Olibert.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mulcahy, Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Nickells, Dr. R. J. Nodwell, Miss Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. William Pasmore, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Poyntz, Mr. Vernon Ridgway, Miss Barty, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sabiston, Mr. Edwin Sanders, Miss K. Mulcahy, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shanks, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Whittington, Mr. Robert Crawford, Miss Thompson, Mr. George McCann, Miss Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alm.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burns, Mr. S. Dickinson, Miss Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dyson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Elwood, Mr. George Fatt, Miss Kelpin, Mr. Morris Kersey, Mr. and Mrs. Joe McAllister, Mr. Donald McFatch, Miss Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Martin, Miss Helen Sweetland, Miss Frost, Mr. Tony Lundt and Mr. Tom Neary.

An evening of music, poetry and discussion at the home of Mrs. Sidney Wood, 2321 Windsor Road, was enjoyed by poets of the Victoria and Association last night.

Miss Selma Reyes, visiting violinist, gave a brilliant performance, accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Rita Reyes. Both the Misses Reyes have studied extensively in the musical centres of Europe, and given recitals in England and on this continent.

Miss Audrey Alexandra Brown, Nanaimo poetess whose fame has rapidly spread across Canada and the United States, recited several of her recent poems during the evening.

A talk on negro poetry was given by Miss Margaret Clay, chief librarian of the Victoria Public Library. Miss Clay traced the history of negro poetry from the days of slavery, when spirituals were as much an escape from slavery as an expression of religious fervor, to the present time.

Modern proletarian poetry by colored writers effectively interpreted their feelings in a challenging way, she said. A great body of negro literature was growing up on the continent comparing most favorably with literature anywhere.

Among others present were Mrs. M. Lane, Miss Sarah Jane Mackay, Mrs. Peggy Mannette, Miss Carmen Higgins, Miss Betty Sledge, Mrs. Florin McLaren, Donald Fraser, Miss Patti Green, Mrs. M. Rathorn, Miss Eugenie Perry, Miss Anne Marriott, Miss Audrey St. Denis Wood, Doris Ferne and Miss Marnie Sullivan.

Homage Paid to Pioneer Governor

I.O.D.E. Honor B.C.'s Birthday and Sir James Douglas

Homage to the memory of Sir James Douglas, pioneer legislator of British Columbia, was paid at the annual commemoration tea held yesterday afternoon in the Empress Hotel in celebration of the birthday of British Columbia on November 19, 1858.

The affair was again sponsored by the I.O.D.E., whose motto, "Keep one hand on the traditions of the past and green the memory of our illustrious dead," was emblazoned on banners hung on the walls of the ballroom, where the tea was held. Many pioneer families were represented in the gathering.

The affair was again sponsored by the I.O.D.E., whose motto, "Keep one hand on the traditions of the past and green the memory of our illustrious dead," was emblazoned on banners hung on the walls of the ballroom, where the tea was held. Many pioneer families were represented in the gathering.

Mr. B. A. McKelvie, the guest speaker, delved back into the early history of British Columbia to prove his contention that "But for Sir James Douglas, this country today would have been under the Stars and Stripes and there would have been no British flag on this side of the Pacific. We have not yet realized the full measure of his service to our country and empire."

The speaker reviewed the events leading up to the establishment of the Crown Colony and also quoted from contemporary observers and writers on James Douglas to show that he, at an early age, evinced those sound characteristics which made him so eminently suited for the high administrative position to which he was subsequently appointed.

Reference was made to the difficulties facing Douglas, owing to the influx of lawless characters who came up from California for the gold rush in the spring of 1858, creating a situation which Douglas met by organizing transport, inaugurating mining laws and, incidentally, collecting miners' license fees and a head tax, and generally insuring the sovereignty of the British Crown.

Despite strong criticism from local opponents, Douglas found his efforts endorsed by the British Government and as a reward was made governor, not only of Vancouver Island, but also of British Columbia. In conclusion the speaker maintained that "the Empire knew no greater empire builder nor more devoted servant than James Douglas."

Mrs. A. S. Christie gracefully thanked Mr. McKelvie for his interesting and informative talk and suggested that a copy of it be placed in the chapter's archives.

A musical programme included songs delightfully sung by Mrs. Duncan McTavish, who was accompanied by Miss Helen Ockenden, and Mrs. W. H. Willson, who was accompanied by Mrs. John Gough; Mr. George Green, who played popular cornet solos; and Mrs. P. B. Shore, Mrs. J. A. Cameron, Mrs. D. Fletcher, Mrs. J. Dallas, Mrs. H. B. Combe, Mrs. J. McIlwraith, Mrs. H. Hargreaves, Mrs. W. Herbert and Mrs. H. G. Mackenzie.

The Misses Winnie Forde, Olive Cosgrove and Muriel Parrell were joint hostesses at the latter's home 509 Connaught St., recently, in honor of Miss Kay Tribe, whose marriage to Mr. Howard Matheson took place on Tuesday. During the afternoon refreshments were served and the bride-elect was presented with a traveling bag. Those present were: Mrs. Parrell, Mrs. Pascal-Spennough, Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Gillies, Mrs. Slesor, Misses E. Eiler, M. Alexis, E. Rodman, M. Allan, M. Hurst, M. Stanley, E. Messerschmidt, O. Cosgrove, K. Tribe, E. Miles, W. Porter, P. Rhodes, L. Bell, M. Lyle, M. Kerr, E. Storey, E. Robinson, I. Scott, V. Rowlands, G. Lindsey, L. Parrell and M. Parrell.

Divorce Bill Supported By M.P.'s.

British House To Modify Present Law

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 20.—The House of Commons today gave second reading to a private member's bill designed to modify Great Britain's stringent divorce laws. The vote was 79 to 12.

E. Thurtell, Labor member for Shoreditch, supporting the bill, said he would like to see marriage a free, voluntary association terminable by mutual consent, but he agreed public opinion had not yet reached that point.

The bill, second reading of which was moved by R. de la Bère, Conservative, provides that no divorce would be granted within five years from the date of marriage. But other relief, such as a judicial separation and nullity, would be available.

It provides that grounds for divorce should include desertion for a period of at least three years, cruelty, incurable insanity where the spouse has been continuously certified insane for at least five years, habitual drunkenness and imprisonment under a commuted death sentence. At present infidelity is the only ground for divorce.

Mr. de la Bère said the bill would bring the marriage law of England into line with laws in nearly every other country.

A. P. Herbert, humorist and author of "Hollyhock," who is an Independent, supported the bill. He estimated that hundreds of thousands would be affected by the provision regarding desertion. With regard to incurable insanity, he said that in 1930 there were 40,000 married lunatics in England of whom 20,000 had been certified insane for more than five years.

Haggis to Be Served at Ball

The uninitiated who have never seen haggis served traditional style can do so on November 30 at the Empress Hotel, on the occasion of St. Andrew's ball. During supper at 11 o'clock pipers in full regalia, colorful and historic, will precede the haggis into the supper room.

After the haggis will march the sword-bearer, armed with the weapon which will cleave its taut skin with all due ceremony. Then will follow two whiskey bottles, borne aloft with strict regard to tradition.

For haggis is the Scotch national dish, and November 30 is St. Andrew's Day, when haggis is eaten and reels are danced to the accompaniment of the pipes.

Officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and others who proudly wear the kilt will take part in the grand march led by the pipers and the haggis, and with such color and ceremony, the ball should be one of the most spectacular held here during the year.

Gordon Head Club—Gordon Head Current Events Club will meet on Monday, November 23. Mrs. Nellie McChung will review events and Miss Oldfield will speak on the Saanich welfare work.

AROUND THE TOWN With Misses Pepys

Thursday, November 19.

This be the day my niece Peggy doth arrive to spend some time. Madcap Peggy! Methinks perhaps her dimpled smiles may soften the solemn visage Samuel doth present these days. He doth suffer some from loving far too well good food and drink. 'Tis familiar complaint, yet Samuel ever doth imagine it do belong to himself alone. Small wonder I do welcome niece Peggy with much pleasure.

A bustling happy morn arranging household affairs. Thoughts turn to the English Bakery at 726 Port Street where I do find such delicious home-baked ham. 'Tis of such mellow flavor! Think also of their tasty Chicken patties and savory steak and Kidney Pies. These be great boon for hasty luncheons at the holiday season. Did I find recently within this shoppe new ham paste; 'tis richer and more deeply flavored and cost so little... 50c a pound. Mistress Peggy's being be ever fond of goodie sandwiches!

Ready betimes for town and pace restlessly about as I do wait for Samuel to join me. He doth merely grant when I remind him of niece Peggy, but note he doth take over long as tying the bow knot in his tie. 'Tis hard to understand a touchy liver!

Walking along Port Street, near Blanshard, do pass Wilfrid Gibson's Photo Studio. Mister Gibson doth have the happy knack of bringing out the best in every countenance, yet methinks he doth keep the likeness very real and lifelike. This season he doth add another service... 'tis the privilege of making evening appointments for a likeness. This be great boon to business folk. 'Tis necessary to make appointment for this service. And 'twould seem the earlier the better... for Mister Gibson be very busy even now.

Find it hard to pass The Period Arts, Shoppe at 501 Government Street and do feel a thrill of pleasure as Samuel doth slow his pace and with one sidelong glance disappear within the portals. Nothing loathe I quickly follow to find Mister Reynolds doth at the moment unpack many huge packing cases from Old England. Here be enticing business! I peek quickly under bits of tissue and great masses of packing stuff. Such fascinating bits of this and that I find. All specially for the Christmas season. Glassware... china... colors that sparkle... soft shades that glow with great richness. Strange shapes that intrigue... odd bits waiting to be picked up. And Mister Reynolds do assure me everything be moderately priced. 'Tis indeed beyond belief! Arrive at landing dock just as the boat doth appear. Peggy doth outdistance everyone in her rush to embrace me. Samuel doth receive his kisses, too, and although he did appear a bit choleric, methinks he liked it, for a smile did touch his countenance for the first time in many days. Blessings on my Peg!

Find Mistress Peggy all a-flutter to be away into the town. She doth know some friends who leave their shores by ocean liner very soon and so doth wish to send bright nosegay to their ship room. The Post Shop at 623 Port Street be just the place for this... they ever have such variety of flowers and they do show such skill in arranging nosegays. We find spicy chrysanthemums in mauve and yellow, a perfect bouquet, and Peggy doth decide a corsage of fragrant violets shall accompany the bouquet. Did ever woman resist violets? For a moment wish I too, did travel away.

Coming to the street again, meet Mistress Castlemain, and as we chatter long, Samuel doth slip away to his club. Mistress Castlemain be rather astute about gift display of Over-seas Christmas cards to be found at Diggon-Hibben Ltd., 1206 Government Street. A real doll baby in miniature lying stretched upon a pillow... so lifelike. I did wish to pick it up. Peggy doth exclaim again... 'tis dainty boxes of dolls' house furniture she doth find this time. Every room be complete with box... 'tis kitchen, bedroom with tiny twin beds, living-room with table and standard lamps. We girls be very lucky these times. Spy perfect wardrobe trunks for dolls... all strapped... and within these be hangers and deep drawers. Even their hotel labels as if they be widely traveled already.

Divorce Bill Supported By M.P.'s.

British House To Modify Present Law

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 20.—The House of Commons today gave second reading to a private member's bill designed to modify Great Britain's stringent divorce laws. The vote was 78 to 12.

E. Thurtle, Labor member for Shoreditch, supporting the bill, said he would like to see marriage a free, voluntary association terminable by mutual consent, but he agreed public opinion had not yet reached that point.

The bill, second reading of which was moved by R. de la Bère, Conservative, provides that no divorce would be granted within five years of the date of marriage. But other relief, such as a judicial separation and nullity, would be available.

It provides that grounds for divorce should include desertion for a period of at least three years, cruelty, incurable insanity where the spouse has been continuously certified insane for at least five years, habitual drunkenness and imprisonment under a commuted death sentence. At present infidelity is the only ground for divorce.

Mr. de la Bère said the bill would bring the marriage law of England into line with laws in nearly every other country.

A. P. Herbert, humorist and author of "Hollyhock," who is an Independent, supported the bill. He estimated that hundreds of thousands would be affected by the provision regarding desertion. With regard to incurable insanity, he said that in 1930 there were 40,000 married lunatics in England of whom 20,000 had been certified insane for more than five years.

After the haggis will march the sword-bearer, armed with the weapon which will cleave its taut skin with two whiskey bottles, borne aloft with strict regard to tradition.

For haggis is the Scotch national dish, and November 30 is St. Andrew's Day, when haggis is eaten and reels are danced to the accompaniment of the pipes.

Officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and others who proudly wear the kilt will take part in the grand march led by the pipers and the haggis, and with such color and ceremony, the ball should be one of the most spectacular held here during the year.

AROUND THE TOWN With Misses Pepsys

Thursday, November 19.
This is the day my niece Peggy doth arrive to spend some time. Madcap Peggy! Methinks perhaps her dimpled smiles may soften the solemn visage Samuel doth present these days. He doth suffer some from loving far too well good food and drink. The familiar complaint, it doth belong to himself alone. Small wonder I do welcome niece Peggy with much pleasure.

A bustling happy morn arranging household affairs. Thoughts turn to the English Bakery at 726 Fort Street where I do find such delicious home-baked loaves. 'Tis of such mellow flavor! Think also of their tasty Chicken patties and savory steak and Kidney Pies. These be great boon for hasty luncheons at the holiday season. Did I find recently within this shoppe new ham paste; 'tis richer and more deeply flavoured and cost so little—50¢ a pound. Mistress Peggy's beaute be ever fond of goodie sandwiches!

Ready betimes for town and picnic restlessly about as I do wait for Samuel to join me. He doth merely grunt when I remind him of niece Peggy, but note he doth take an interest in his tie. 'Tis hard to understand a touchy liver!

Walking along Fort Street, near Blanshard, do pass Wilfrid Gibson's Photo Studio. Mister Gibson doth have the happy knack of bringing out the best in every countenance, yet methinks he doth keep the likeness very real and lifelike. 'Tis necessary to make appointment for this service. And 'twould seem the earlier the better... for Mister Gibson be very busy even now.

Finde it hard to pass The Period Arts Shoppe at 801 Government Street and do feel a thrill of pleasure as Samuel doth slow his pace and with one sidelong glance disappear within the portals. Nothing loathe I quickly follow to finde Mister Reynolds doth at the moment unpack many huge packing cases from Old England. Here be enticing business! I peek quickly under bits of tissue and great masses of packing stuff. Such fascinating bits of this and that I finde. All specially for the Christmas season. Glassware... china... colors that sparkle... soft shades that glow with great richness. Strange shapes that intrigue... odd bits waiting to be picked up. And Mister Reynolds do assure me everything be moderately priced. 'Tis indeed beyond belief! Arrive at landing dock just as the boat doth appear. Peggy doth outdistance everyone in her rush to embrace me. Samuel doth receive his kisses, too, and although he did appear a bit choleric, methinks he liked it, for a smile doth touch his countenance for the first time in many days. Blessings on my Peggy!

Finde Mistress Peggy all a flutter to be away into the town. She doth know some friends who leave these shores by ocean liner very soon and so doth wish to send bright nosegays to their ship room. The Poey Shop at 623 Fort Street be just the place for this... they ever have such variety of flowers and they do show such skill in arranging nosegays. We finde spicy chrysanthemums in mauve and yellow, a perfect bouquet, and Peggy doth decide a corsage of fragrant violets shall accompany the bouquet. Did ever woman resist violets? For a moment wish I, too, did travel away.

Coming to the street again, meet Mistress Castlemain, and as we chat—long—Samuel doth slip away to his club. Mistress Castlemain be enthusiastic about great display of Overseas Christmas cards to be found at Diggon-Hibben Ltd., 1208 Government Street. Beautiful local views these be... perfect for sending far away. Then, too, there be a wonderful Canadian calendar... quite new this year... that doth embody scenes from every province in the Dominion. 'Tis printed in soft sepia browns on fine smooth paper. Mistress Castlemain doth suggest that goodie book by Canadian author be another fine gift for overseas. 'The Honorable Company,' MacKay; 'Steels of Empire,' Gibbs... these, and many other authors be down at Diggon's.

Walking about town with Peggy be exciting business. She doth finde so much that she do exclaim about. At Barber and Holdcroft's Toy Shop, 1623 Douglas Street, 'twas but a minute and she did spot a new baby doll. 'Baby Jean', 'tis named. A real doll baby in miniature lying stretched upon a pillow... so lifelike. I did wish to pick it up. Peggy doth exclaim again... 'tis dainty boxes of dolls' house furniture she doth finde this time. Every room be complete with tiny twin beds, living-room with table and standard lamps. We girls be very lucky these days for dolls be all strapped... and within there be hangers and deep drawers. Even their hotel labels as if they be widely traveled already.

Home! Mistress Peggy doth fill about the house like some brilliant butterfly. There be much bustle and stir... the telephone ringing... and the great front door opening. 'Twould seem we do hold court this night, Samuel and myself do content ourselves. Beside the fireside within the sound of laughing voices.

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

By Robert Edward Dickson

(Copyright, 1936)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, knows that the neighborhood is buzzing with gossip over the sudden disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, whose engagement to Marcia has been announced. Since his disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's funds has been discovered.

Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia goes to the dramatic club try-out and is given the leading part in a new play. Afterward, with others, she stops at a restaurant. There is a holdup and Marcia loses a ring that was her mother's.

From her friend HELEN WADDELL, Marcia learns that Frank is in Chicago, decides to go there to persuade him to return and face his financial obligations. She takes the first plane.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, Frank Kendrick becomes aware of the search for him and the disappearance of his fiancée.

TONY STELLICCI suspects his brother, CARLO, of being involved in the holdup. In Carlo's home he finds the foot from the holdup.

Marcia, however, at and to return home. Among the passengers is a stranger she had encountered in the hotel restaurant. His name is BRUCE McDUGALL.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Marcia's plane had left Chicago in weather which was only a little better than had been enough to suspend service. There had been indications of improvement, sufficient to permit the plane's departure, but several hours on the way, the pilot encountered conditions which the airport had not expected. The wind veered suddenly, bringing snow, and then, shifting again, forced the temperature down, so that ice formed on the wings.

The passengers who observed at all noticed vaguely that the pilot seemed to be seeking a more favorable altitude and wind conditions, but they could not, of course, know when the co-pilot found the radio suddenly dead.

Marcia, gazing through her window into the haze at mental images which the poor visibility of the day could not erase, realized that the plane was about to land. She had not acquainted herself with the schedule of the flight and thought that they were making a regular stop, until she noticed that the landing was to be attempted not at an airport but in a field, snow-covered and isolated.

Considering the snow, the pilot made an excellent landing; it was not his fault that a drift-covered fence brought his plane to an abrupt stop, jerking the craft to one side so violently that a wing dipped and one propeller was badly damaged, and the passengers were rudely jolted.

Instantly there was a chorus of questions. The pilot and co-pilot emerged from the control room, and patiently and at length explained the decreasing visibility and the silent radio.

Then the two men opened a door and disappeared in the mist.

Under the ministrations of the stewardess, the cabin took on something of the atmosphere of a picnic. The coffee and sandwiches which would have been served within half an hour at any event were passed around, and people began to speak to their neighbors of their escape from a serious accident, and of possible continuing transportation.

In the midst of these festivities Bruce McDougall, having finished his refreshments, turned in his seat and glanced at the passengers behind him. He saw Marcia, and his face broke into the same broad yet strangely embarrassed grin which she had seen earlier at the hotel in Chicago. Then he was on his feet, making his way down the noisy aisle toward her.

"Will you believe," he said bending over her, "that I'm not actually following you?"

The seat opposite Marcia was now vacant and McDougall appropriated it.

"I didn't have a chance to thank you for the sketch," said Marcia. "I'd like to do another—a gay one," said McDougall, and then he stopped short. "That is—"

He was patently at a loss for words, but the plane door was opened at the moment and the two pilots then climbed in.

"There's a farmhouse not far back where you can all be comfortable for a while," the chief announced. "I hope you won't be delayed long. I'll make immediate efforts to have you on your way, but in the meantime there's a warm house for you to wait in—plenty of room for all."

The farmhouse, the passengers found after trudging through the deep snow for a weary distance, was the spacious home of an elderly couple who, far from being embarrassed by this invasion, welcomed it as a pleasant interlude. More food was forthcoming for the crowd of guests, and a cheerful log fire.

All, indeed, that they could desire, with the exception that the storm which had forced them down had also put the telephone line out of commission and blocked the roads:

The morning papers on the breakfast tables of Bobbs Neck carried the news that a plane from Chicago was hours overdue and unreported. Now 'Awkins, the Canfield butler, read the news story over his coffee, with no great interest until he glanced down the appended list of passengers, as announced by the air line. "Miss Marcia Canfield of Bobbs Neck."

"Awkins was not an alarmist. He discussed with himself the matter of sending a wire to Mr. Canfield in Florida, and decided against it. For one thing, Mr. Canfield would probably read the same news in a Florida paper; if he did not, 'Awkins disliked the idea of worrying him pending receipt of more definite word. Therefore, he contented himself—although it did not suffice to allay his own anxiety—with telephoning the air line in New York and asking that any news be relayed to him immediately.

During the day he was kept busy answering the telephone; friends of the Canfields called constantly to ask for news.

Helen Waddell's anxiety, although shared by many in the village, was especially acute. She felt that she had sent her friend on the trip that had ended, for all anyone knew to the contrary, in disaster.

There was a rehearsal that night for "Half-acre in Eden," and Helen mechanically prepared to attend, disliking to do so at the moment of possible tragedy, but knowing she could accomplish nothing by remaining away.

It was a futile rehearsal. Although someone was found to read the lines of the absent Marcia, no one could put much spirit into the enterprise. The cast went through its routine half-heartedly, and Mrs. Henderson, the director, dismissed the members earlier than usual when she saw that the evening was being wasted.

But this did not disperse the players. Hoping in the face of uncertainty, for the best, and fearing the worst, they remained in the auditorium and discussed the possibilities.

"What," asked someone, "was Marcia doing in Chicago, anyway? She must have gone out there very suddenly. I hadn't heard of her going."

Dorothy Osborn had restrained herself during the entire day while the village buzzed with the news, but she could not hold back any longer.

"As a matter of fact," she said, "I saw her leaving. I was at the station day before yesterday, when she was catching a train to the city."

"I hate to say it, if anything has happened to her—although I don't see any reason for not telling the truth—but she told me distinctly she was going to Schenectady. Now, why should she be about it? I've been thinking it over, and I'm willing to bet there's more to it than meets the eye. My guess is that it had something to do with Frank Kendrick!"

"Now, this is cozy," Bruce McDougall said to Marcia on their second night in the farmhouse. "Everybody else trots off to bed on the sofas and cots and shakedown beds provided by our charming hosts, but you're sporting enough to stay up and share this delightful fire with me. I don't feel like sleeping any way, and when I think of sitting here alone—"

"You'll sit alone very shortly," said Marcia. "I'm beginning to get sleepy. But I would like a cigarette before I turn in again on my army cot in the hall."

They sat for a while in silence, enjoying the sacrifice of great logs in the fireplace.

"This is sort of like being on shipboard," McDougall said. "You feel you know people after only a short time. Care to hear the story of my life?"

"How about just one chapter now?" Marcia retorted. "A chapter explaining why you go around sketching people so persistently."

"Oh, that! Why, I'm interested in types. I guess, now, that sketch of you, for instance, was to be first in the file of beautiful women. . . . All right, all right! Then you tell me the story of your life."

Lying on her cot, courting sleep, she thought again of the confusion of the last two days. She thought of the curtain rung down on an episode in her life—rung down by the author of the episode, Frank Kendrick.

But Marcia declared it bedtime. Lying on her cot, courting sleep, she thought again of the confusion of the last two days. She thought of the curtain rung down on an episode in her life—rung down by the author of the episode, Frank Kendrick.

She thought, for no identifiable reason, of the young couple in love whom she had glimpsed in a Chicago taxi, and again she compared Kendrick and herself with that pair of lovers; and she thought then, so hap hazard as the mental pictures which come while one is falling asleep, of Bruce McDougall, and she was deep in a dream before any further thoughts made procession through her mind.

THERE IS NO EASY WAY TO DETERMINE WHETHER A MUSHROOM IS HARMLESS

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Many centuries ago, the wife, daughter and two sons of the Greek poet Euripides died after eating poisonous mushrooms. Since that time many people throughout the world have died because of their curiosity and appetite.

There are no simple tests by which an uninformed person can distinguish the poisonous from the harmless mushrooms. Some people think that peeling off the top of the mushroom reveals the difference; others believe that cooking the mushrooms with a silver spoon will indicate which are poisonous.

When you are out playing golf, it is much safer to stick to the game than to interrupt it by picking mushrooms that happen to grow along the course. You cannot be sure about them when there are 40,000 varieties, and even experts may have trouble in telling the more common types apart.

Recently a group of four people went out picnicking and gathered a large quantity of mushrooms. They put a silver quarter in the pan in which they cooked the mushrooms, believing that the quarter would become tarnished if they were poisonous.

The quarter did not tarnish, but the next morning all four were seriously ill and later two of them died. When their bodies were examined, liver and kidneys, and even the nervous system and brain showed severe damage.

This shows that it is much better to buy mushrooms from an experienced dealer. If you do happen to feel any symptoms of mushroom poisoning, get a doctor immediately, as this may mean the difference between life and death.

There are more than eighty species of poisonous mushrooms on this continent. The most common type is the amanita Phalloides, which is responsible for more than 90 per cent of the deaths from mushroom poisoning.

The four most common classes of mushrooms are: First, the gill-bearing mushrooms; second, those that have small vertical tubes on the underside of the cap; third, those with teeth-like spines, which hang from the under sides of the caps, and fourth, those that have their spores scattered over the entire surface and are coral-like in appearance.

Colors of the spores vary from white to pink, brown, purple, and black. Although some edible mushrooms have pure white spores, the poisonous amanita family are always white. Poisonous mushrooms grow chiefly in the woods or stumpy areas, while many edible mushrooms grow in open fields.

Any mushroom that deposits white spores and a wart-covered cap or cup at the base should be rejected as dangerous. The mushroom causes death because of a colorless and tasteless poison which it contains and which kills human beings by destroying the blood cells.

The most common mushroom sold for food purposes has a broad, convex cap one to five inches wide and rather thick, with firm, white flesh.

Slam By Careful Play

Declarer Permits Opponent to Trump One Trick and Help Set Up Side Suit for Contract

By WM. E. McKENNEY

No doubt one of the things that make duplicate bridge a source of pleasure to the hundreds of thousands who play it, is that of comparing what they have done or failed to do with what others have done with the same cards.

If a player makes a game or slam, on which others have failed, the occasion becomes well worth while, even though other hands were seemingly drab and colorless.

When Mrs. Maude Hall, of Morgantown, W. Va., made six hearts on today's hand, she did not realize that she had done any better than others who held the same hand at the recent tri-state championship bridge tournament held in Uniontown, Pa. But the posted score revealed that, while many had bid slams in spades, hearts and no trump, she was the only one to make her contract. She deserved her thrill for the accomplishment, because she played her hand well.

Mrs. Hall won the opening lead of the diamond two with the ace in

NEW MORPHINE IS INVENTED

More Powerful and Safer Than What is Now Being Used

Washington, Nov. 20. — Morphine more powerful and safer than the morphine that physicians now use to relieve suffering has been prepared and patented (U.S. Patent No. 2,058,321) by Dr. Lyndon F. Small of the University of Virginia.

The new kind of morphine—actually Dr. Small has patented three new morphine compounds—was discovered when Dr. Small was trying to develop a non-habit-forming substitute for morphine. The goal of non-habit-forming morphine is being sought in a fundamental attack on narcotic drug addiction launched in 1929 by the National Research Council, the United States Public Health Service and the Treasury Department's Narcotic Bureau. The research on narcotic substitutes is being carried on at the Universities of Virginia and Michigan.

The new morphines which Dr. Small has just patented have not yet been tried on human patients. Tests on animals show that these new morphine substances are less poisonous than ordinary morphine; are more powerful so that smaller doses can be given; and set for a longer time, so that they need not be given as often as morphine in the relief of pain.

Because only animal tests have been made, no statement on the habit-forming possibilities of the new morphines can be made. Another morphine substitute, dihydrodesoxy-morphine-D, which Dr. Small prepared two years ago, turned out to be more habit-forming than ordinary morphine, although preliminary tests encouraged the hope that it would be the long-sought non-habit-forming morphine substitute.

Clinical tests on human subjects of the new morphines will be made shortly.

The invention comprises three new ethers of morphine and dihydromorphine, in which the alcoholic hydroxyl

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRIDGE

EYES OF VERY YOUNG BABIES OFTEN BECOME TEMPORARILY CROSSED

While the baby is very new and his eyes lack the power of perfect co-ordination, there is a tendency for them to cross. Up to three months of age they act somewhat independently of each other, sometimes with queer and startling effects.

Small babies have a terrifying habit—terrifying that is to their mothers—of thrusting their heads backward—until they are almost standing upon them, and then gazing at the world from this unusual angle.

ALL BABIES DO IT

Toys put into a baby's hands are held close up to his eyes and on occasion this will cause some temporary crossing.

This relatively short period of poor eye co-ordination is suffered by all babies. It is a matter of no concern whatever, provided the mother takes care not to hang toys so close to baby's eyes, or allow him to thumb-suck too persistently, when by so doing he habitually gazes cross-eyed upon them.

"Just the last two weeks," writes Mrs. H. N., "my six-months-old baby's large, brown eyes have become slightly crossed at times. No one in either of our families has cross eyes. Is this something he will outgrow or should we do something about it?"

My surmise is that, with no cross eyes in the family, the tendency will be short-lived. At the moment there is probably little that can be done about it, other than to prevent the baby looking at objects from too limited a distance.

NO CASUAL ADVICE

But later, if the tendency persists, I should get the advice of an excellent eye specialist and set upon it. As all eye conditions need the most intelligent treatment, I should be sure that you did not put into effect any casual advice from persons unversed in corrective eye treatment.

Our leaflet, "Christmas Goodies for Children," may be obtained for a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldridge of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

ROYAL OAK

At St. Michael's Church, Royal Oak, on Sunday, Bishop H. E. Sexton of the Diocese of Columbia, inducted Canon S. J. Wickens in the parishes of St. Michael's, Royal Oak, and St. Columba, Strawberry Vale. On Monday, November 23, a reception will be held in St. Michael's Parish Hall at 8.15 o'clock for Canon and Mrs. Wickens. A parish meeting has been called for 7.45 o'clock.

The Saanich Council yesterday evening approved a petition from twenty-seven residents in the Brackfoot Estates area asking that the estates be placed within the restricted area for the discharging of firearms. The restriction was sought as a protective measure for humans and domestic animals.

Detailed lists of all relief recipients, indicating those receiving direct relief and those who work for relief, will be presented to the Saanich Council following the request yesterday evening by Councillors E. C. Warren, Ward Two, and W. R. Woods, Ward Four.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1936

SECOND SECTION

Rangers Beat Wings To Tie In U.S. Section Leadership

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

PROFESSOR G. G. SEDGEWICK, bright literary light of the University of British Columbia, whose eloquence and appreciation in matters of letters is known to hundreds of Victorians, has invaded a new field. The portly but dapper figure, whose boiled shirt has gleamed from the lecture platform before the most intellectual gatherings here, has turned sports columnist.

He goes to bat, in English a bit too dignified for the permissible barbarisms of the athletic jargon, for English rugby as opposed to the Canadian game. His views on the relative merits of the two sports flow through a critique rather than a column. In the November 17 issue of The Ubysey, "Varsity student publication."

"There is nothing more ably beautiful than the complicated yet even rhythms of ball and player moving to execute a perfect series of passes down field. And when, as often, this movement ends in a try, the spectator gets that sense of complete poetic justice which no other play in any other game can give him," Professor Sedgewick writes in part.

Contrasting the English code with the Canadian, he says the latter "is nothing if not one long, wild African dance—one, two, three and a kick—two, three and a kick—from beginning to end." "And there is no monotony in it, as that formula would perhaps suggest. The game moves, like great verse, with all sorts of variation within a fixed pattern; plunges through centre, lateral passes, end runs. The only ugly jar in the rhythm is made by the forward pass, which is, of course, a very unprincipled play."

Speaking of Varsity, there appears to be a diminution in the number of Victoria boys who are rating Big Blocks in that institution for major sports. There was a time when the Varsity McKechnie Cup rugby team depended to a top-heavy extent on Victoria-trained boys to carry their colors. In track and basketball the same was true to a lesser degree. Perhaps the recent drop in the higher grade enrollments at some of the more popular local private schools have had some effect in that respect.

The faithful who crowded into the Tillicum gym for the fight card on Wednesday night were, on the whole, satisfied with the show. But the majority figure "Sonny" Buxton will have to hit harder if he is to aspire to the heights some predict.

W. A. Fry, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, in a report on the opening day of that body's convention in Regina, presented his reasons for ignoring the mail vote on proposed amendments to the rulings which would allow more elasticity in the ranks of the amateurs. His statement will doubtless draw a lot of caustic comment, as will his submission regarding "perfectly valid reasons why amateur sport in Canada should be kept as sweet and wholesome as it is within the union's power to make it."

Basketball followers here are inclined to bestow bouquets on the Sons of Canada Intermediate A entry this year for the smart floor work it displayed against Kinsman-Gillespie on Wednesday night. The players appreciate the praise but would rather receive invitations for games with outside teams to give them greater variety.

Badly upset in their game against the Navy last Saturday, the James Bay Athletic Association will have another opportunity to show the ability of its backfield tomorrow when the team stacks up against the Rowing Club-Occasional squad in the surprise game at Macdonald Park. The Vancouver outfit includes several triers of exceptional experience. If Tommy Roxborough, their five-eighths, has an on day, they should make the going pretty tough for the Victoria team. Against the outsiders the Bays will be using the backfield which will, in all probability, be virtually intact for the rep squad.

Derby, England, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Fog today prevented the running of the Derby Cup, a handicap race over a distance of a mile and six furlongs.

Frankie Boucher Marks Return to Patrick Team With Important Assist

Gagnon's Goal Beats Amerks

There were no unbeaten heroes to strum about on the National Hockey League guitar today—the last two zero notes have been removed from the loss column.

In a night ill-fated for leaders, the champion Detroit Red Wings saw Rangers draw even with them for the United States section lead and New York Americans watched their advantage in the Canadian group sliced to two points. Rangers downed Wings 1 to 0 in New York last night and Amerks dropped a 3 to 2 decision to Canadiens in Montreal. The International Trophy fixture, this match should get underway about 8 o'clock. Preceding the international match will be a preliminary game, bringing together a pair of smart quintettes.

Earl Robinson started the parade on a pass from Lionel Conacher and Gus Marker made it 2 to 0 before the first period ended on a play with Herb Cain and Bob Gracie. Gracie and Marker helped Cain for the third goal and Gracie's counter, which capped the scoring, was unassisted.

The Rangers' 1936-37 edition showed class to humble Red Wings. They welcomed back little Frankie Boucher, brilliant play-maker of many Ranger clubs, who has been on the side-lines with a leg injury. LYN GETS ASSIST

And Frankie warranted the welcome—he made the play for Cecil Dillon's first period goal. Lynn Patrick also coming in for an assist.

SEES BOUT AS BIG BUILD UP

Louis-Braddock Go Would Boost Value of Championship Fight, Jacobs Says

Associated Press New York, Nov. 20.—Behind all the negotiations for the Jim Braddock-Joe Louis fight in Atlantic City in February is the promoters' belief it offers a prime build-up for a million dollar game in a title match next summer.

Mike Jacobs, who will co-promote the proposed twelve-round no-decision fight with Herman Taylor of Philadelphia and possibly Madison Square Garden, voiced that conviction as he worked out details. Such a match would have Max Schmeling meeting the winner of the Shore City clash, Jacobs explained. If Louis should knock out Braddock, he would be paired for a return go with the German heavyweight who belted him out in twelve rounds this year. If Braddock ticks the Detroit Brown Bomber, a fight between the champion and his already designated number one challenger would draw a larger crowd. Jacobs explained this today before a conference with Taylor, whose $500,000 guarantee to Braddock started the whole thing, and Joe Gould, the champion's manager, to tell them how Madison Square Garden stands on the bout.

Brooklyn, Nov. 20.—Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday purchased the contract of Shortstop Tony Malinovsky from Pittsburgh Pirates. It was announced as a straight cash transaction.

West Saanich To Meet Bremerton

This evening in the West Road Hall, Bremerton cagers will be seen in action, when they take the floor against the smooth-working West Saanich Mercantiles, in the International Trophy fixture. This match should get underway about 8 o'clock. Preceding the international match will be a preliminary game, bringing together a pair of smart quintettes.

grapes for the California wine industry. Branching out into the actual wine-making business Bidwell became one of the most prominent vintners in the state.

Elected a delegate to the California Constitutional Convention in 1849, Bidwell assisted in framing the document and in the same year became a member of the state's first Legislature. Established as a political power, he was elected a United States representative and was a candidate for governor of California in 1875.

In 1876 Bidwell affiliated himself with the Prohibition Party, uprooted all his wine-bearing grapes, and planted raisin varieties in their stead. Nominated for the Presidency of the United States by the Prohibition Party in 1892, the ex-wine maker received the largest Presidential vote ever polled by the party.

Sunderland In Good Position

Last Season's English Football League Champs Have Chance to Share Lead

London, Nov. 20.—Sunderland's brilliant drive for leadership of the English Football League may see the Roker Park squad challenging Portsmouth, the pace-setter, after this week's schedule is played. At home to Stoke City, last season's champion team is favored to win, and the points would put the Northerners on even terms with Portsmouth should the latter be unsuccessful at Everton.

Arsenal seems to have recovered some of its old brilliance and now stands in ninth place. Tomorrow the Gunners entertain Middlesbrough, and victory would carry them further up the league table.

A sound defence and resourceful attack so far has kept Bury at the top of the Second Division, but the Lancastrians have a hard fight against Bradford City at Bradford. The City, in twentieth position, is making a desperate effort to avoid relegation at the end of the season.

Aston Villa, still has a good chance of regaining First Division status and should succeed against Blackburn Rovers at Villa Park.

David Jack, one of the greatest inside forwards the game has known, will probably return as a player on Saturday after an absence of two and a half years. The former Arsenal star is now manager of Southern United in the Southern Section of the Third Division, and is seeking permission to line up against Bristol City. He has been training for several weeks.

Luton Town, leader of the Southern Section has a hard fight against Millwall, but Chester, at the top of the Northern Section, should have no difficulty against Accrington Stanley.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE Glasgow, Nov. 20.—Three of the top First Division Scottish Football League games carded this week-end will be played in Glasgow, and all "Derbies" promise to produce real battles.

Perhaps the best game—from a playing point of view—is scheduled for Parkhead, home of the runner-up, Celtic. The Celts, champions last year, will meet Third Lanark, one of the most dangerous clubs in the circuit.

Unbeaten in fifteen starts, Glasgow Rangers entertain St. Johnstone at Ibrox Park.

The only amateur club in the league, Queen's Park, is faced with the formidable task of taking the points from the fifth-position Hearts at Hampden Park. The amateurs at home are a menace to any club in the loop.

Aberdeen's early-season form that carried it to a clear lead, seems to be fading. The Dons haven't collected a point in their last two games and now lead Celtic by one point. They have a home game against Clyde this week-end and should come through to hold the leadership.

Co-leaders of the Second Division, Morton plans an away game with Cowdenbeath, and Ayr United plays before a home crowd against Stenhousemuir.

Tillicum Club In Cue Victory

In the senior division of the City Billiard League this week, Eddie Newman and Johnny Gow turned in victories for the Tillicum over the Elks.

Newman took the measure of Evan Edwards by fourteen points, while Gow defeated "Toots" Plumb by forty points, gaining revenge for the set-back he received last week. Percy Fitzsimmons turned in the Elks' single victory by beating Fred Smith by a comfortable margin.

Soccer Circles Expecting Close Tussle When Squads Battle For Possession of Milton Cup Tomorrow at Athletic Park

With the successful defence of the Milton Cup their aim, Victoria City, present holders of the trophy will take the field at the Athletic Park against Saanich Thistles tomorrow afternoon in the only first-division fixture on the Victoria and District Football League's programme.

The match will start at 2.15 o'clock, with J. C. "Scotty" Dows handling the whistle.

In the opening cup matches played early in the month, the City and Thistles were compelled to battle in overtime skirmishes to qualify for the final. The City downed Victoria West 4 to 2, while the Saanich eleven measured Equimatt for a 2 to 1 defeat.

THISTLES IMPROVED The new young blood on the suburban aggregation's roster has done much to improve the standard of that team's play since the start of the season and soccer circles are predicting a good, close and interesting battle before a victor is decided. The City eleven has won the trophy for the last two years running.

In the event of a tie after the regulation ninety minutes, the teams will play half an hour overtime.

SECOND DIVISION A pair of fixtures are carded for the second division. Victoria Cooperage will engage Saanich Thistles at Heywood Avenue. T. Robb will officiate. At Bullen Park Equimatt will clash with Victoria West, with Cull in charge. These two matches will start at 2.45 o'clock.

The line-ups for the feature follow: Victoria City—Bowe, Moody, Roper, C. Robinson, G. Robb, Reside, G. Payne, Moore, Bradow, J. Payne, Halkett, Peers, Youson and Pearce. Players are asked to meet at the Athletic Park at 1.45.

M.C.C. ELEVEN BATTING WELL

Touring English Side Sets Up 274 For Five Against Australian Cricketers

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 20.—Strong batting by Maurice Leyland, Yorkshire, and Leslie Ames, Kent, gave the Marylebone Cricket Club touring team a good start today in a four-day match against an Australian eleven. At the close of play the visitors' score stood at 274 for five wickets.

R. W. V. Robins, Middlesex amateur, made a welcome reappearance and captained the Englishmen in the absence of G. O. Allen. An injured finger had kept Robins out of the team since early in the tour.

Fifteen thousand spectators saw Robins win the toss and send his team to the wickets in cloudy weather. The first wicket fell with only twelve runs lost, but by dint of careful batting the M.C.C.'s total mounted slowly.

When stumps were drawn Leyland was unbeaten with 79 runs. His patient effort included five boundary strokes. Ames made 76 before he was dismissed, hitting ten fours.

MURRAY PATRICK HOCKEY "BAD MAN"

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 20.—Little Charlie Mason from Saskatoon, forward for Philadelphia Ramblers, today set the scoring pace for the International-American Hockey League.

Official statistics issued by the league covering all games up to the present, show the roving Rambler has eight points, three goals and the five points on assists.

A point behind Mason is Clint Smith, another Saskatoon boy wearing the Rambler sweater.

Jack Church of Syracuse and Twinkle Starr of Pittsburgh are the ace badmen of the league with eight minor penalties each for a total of eighteen minutes. Close behind comes Murray "Muzz" Patrick of Victoria, now playing with Ramblers. Patrick has fourteen minutes in penalties, including two majors and two minors.

McLarnin Poised For Battle With Lightweight King

Hitting Power Gives Canadian Betting Margin

Barney Ross to Meet Winner of Battle at Garden Tonight

Belting Celt In Fine Shape

Associated Press
New York, Nov. 20.—For years the fight industry has been calling Jimmy McLarnin the wrecker of lightweight champions. The "Little Mick" from Vancouver is going to find out tonight if he still has the name as well as the fame.

He meets Lou Ambers, the current 135-pound king, in a ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden in the second start of his comeback campaign.

From McLarnin's training quarters comes word that the one-time "Baby Face" is in the best condition of his long career. If that is so, Ambers is in for a busy evening, for there certainly was nothing wrong with McLarnin in the days when he belted Sammy Mandell, Al Singer, Tony Cannoneri and Sid Terris around.

Although McLarnin has been established the 7 to 5 favorite, chiefly because of his heavy-hitting ability, his experience, and seven or eight-pound weight advantage, that is not bothering Ambers. The Herkimer (N.Y.) Hurricane insists his superior speed, his youth and his unorthodox two-handed offense will win out.

SECOND START SINCE SEPTEMBER
It is the second time inside the ring for Ambers since he took the lightweight crown away from Cannoneri in September. McLarnin is making his first start since whipping Tony soundly in October.

Ambers didn't do so well the first time out after beating Tony. He took on Eddie Cool, the slim Philadelphia boxer, in a non-title fight, and came out on the short end of the decision.

Barney Ross, the welterweight champion, has agreed to meet the winner, regardless of the outcome of his November 27 title bout with Ivey Jannazzo. It was Ross who first won then lost and finally regained the 147-pound crown by whipping McLarnin two out of three times since 1934.

STATISTICS
The tale of the tape for tonight's ten-round fight between McLarnin and Ambers follows:

	McLarnin	Ambers

Fordham Rose-Bowling Along

With their eyes on the Rose Bowl and their apparently impregnable defence holding stoutly, Fordham's Rams swept Purdue to defeat, 15 to 0, at the Polo Grounds in New York. Fordham's darkshirted players romp gleefully above as the referee signals the success of Joe Dulkie's touchdown thrust in the first minutes of the game, after the Rams had recovered the ball on the Purdue twenty-five-yard line on Drake's fumble of the kickoff.

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 20.—Jimmy Thomson, the blond siege gun from Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., gained the quarter-final round of the Professional Golfers' Championship yesterday afternoon with a 4 and 2 victory over the favored Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., in a thirty-six-hole match.

He advanced as Horton Smith broke loose with a par shattering performance to overcome a five-hole deficit at the twenty-second and beat Willie Goggin, San Bruno, Calif., 2 and 1.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., who knocked the crown off defending champion Johnny Revolta's head in the second round, registered a 4 and 3 victory over Leo Walper, Bethesda, Mo. He was scheduled to meet Thomson in today's quarter-finals, also at thirty-six holes.

Craig Wood of Deal, N.J., also advanced to the third round with a 2 and 1 triumph over Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Chicago.

The other quarter-finalists are: Tony Manero of Greensboro, N.C., national open titleholder, who is striving to become the first player in fourteen years to win both the national and P.G.A. crowns in the same year; Denny Shute of Boston, winner of the British open three years ago; "Wild Bill" Melhorn of Louisville, who has not been very wild in this tournament, and Jimmy Hines of Garden City, N.Y.

Change Made in Amateur Rulings

A.A.U. Approves Exhibition Matches Between Pros and Amateurs Under Sanction; Split on Other "Four-point" Policies

Canadian Press

Regina, Nov. 20.—The amateur athletic union of Canada today approved the first of the "four points" regarding amateur-professional relation. It adopted a resolution providing amateur teams may play exhibition games with professional teams under sanction of the Amateur Branch concerned at any time during the season.

First indication of the stand of the Union on letting down the amateur bars came from the important resolutions committee, which approved two and rejected two of the proposals. The committee divided on all four points, Chairman Jim Morin of Winnipeg said.

The committee approved capitalization of athletic prowess in obtaining employment and exhibition games between amateur and professional teams.

REJECTED POINTS

The two most controversial points were rejected. One proposed professionals in one line of sport be permitted to play as amateurs in others. The second suggested athletes be paid for time lost from work while competing.

The committee's action has no bearing on the fate of the resolutions before the annual meeting.

HARDWICK PROBLEM

Walter Hardwick of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, faced the meeting with another controversial problem, yesterday, stating he had a mandate from his association for withdrawal from the A.A.U. unless the cage body's grievances concerning articles of alliance were settled immediately.

There has been too much vague innuendo leveled at the Olympic committee and its motives, rather than definite charges and in cases where criticism has been definite, there have been many misstatements, Mr. Crocker's report stated.

He cited instances of criticism, though not outlining what that criticism had been. Any dissatisfaction with Olympic hockey was the responsibility of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and not the committee, because the association "had asked to be allowed to run its own show," the report said.

Charges of "alleged looseness" in the handling of ocean tickets had been laid through "a glaring disregard of facts."

The Crocker report continued: "Your officials deeply regret the attack which officers of the Central Ontario Branch saw fit to launch at A. E. Ooo (Winnipeg), manager of the track team. The success of the 1936 Olympic track squad amply refutes the fault finding."

"The suggestion, as quoted in a daily newspaper's report of the meeting of the Ontario branch that a speaker had said Dan McKenna had forced last minute changes in appointments of Olympic officials is an absolute myth."

SUPPORTS MCKINNON

"If Archie McKinnon was referred to, we want you to know that he is a highly regarded Y.M.C.A. physical director in Victoria, and the finest reports came from the west regarding him."

Two resolutions for reorganization of the Olympic committee are before the meeting. The Central Ontario Branch proposes a special committee be set up to study possible reorganization.

No travelling expenses were charged to the provincial treasury by cabinet ministers who campaigned in the Columbia riding during the by-election last June. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, informed the British Columbia Legislature in reply to questions of Thomas Uphill, Labor, Fernie. The premier and four of his colleagues toured the district but charged nothing to the treasury for their expenses, he said.

Eagles' Aerie Hears Trustee

James W. Bryan, Bremerton, junior grand trustee of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, gave a talk on the aims and achievements of the order in Canada and the United States during a visit Wednesday evening to the Victoria Aerie.

Mr. Bryan, who was former prosecuting attorney of Kitsap County, stressed the record of the Eagles in sponsoring humanitarian measures. The gain in membership and financial strength during the last five years was indicative, he said, of the value of the organization's work.

The committee in charge of the social programme included: A. Pynn, chairman; P. Babcock, C. O'Regan, P. Cals, J. Green, A. Hampton, and D. Mosler. J. R. B. Graham, president, was chairman.

Further Inquiry In Potato Marketing

Legislature Asked Further Action Under Public Inquiries Act; Committee Admits "Considerable Spread Between Grower and Consumer"

Reporting to the Legislature this afternoon after five days investigating the operations of the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, the agricultural committee of the legislature declared that evidence disclosed "a considerable spread" between the grower and consumer in the price of vegetables handled by the board.

The committee suggested that the necessity or otherwise for this spread in price should be investigated by a commission having wider powers. The committee observed the marketing board of partially or un-economic administration as far as the evidence was concerned.

The cost of operating the scheme could be reduced if the board handled a larger amount of produce, the committee said, explaining that unlawful marketing had reduced the volume handled by the board.

The committee found evidence of considerable dissatisfaction among the growers over the scheme, and suggested a wider dissemination of information in regard to it through the press and radio, and added that an independent audit of the agency's books, as suggested by some growers would have a good effect in eliminating this dissatisfaction.

Thirty-three witnesses were heard by the inquiry and ten sittings were held.

Before the adjournment of the committee this morning Frank Higgins, K.C., counsel for Oriental interests concerned, urged upon the members an investigation under the Public Inquiries Act. It was quite apparent, he said, that the committee had been unable to get at the root of the trouble, although there was no one to blame for this fact.

WANTS AUDIT Before such an investigation was called he proposed that a chartered accountant paid by the agency, and his report should be submitted to the inquiry. There would be no objection to the board or the agency having their accounts represented at such an audit, he said.

E. D. Barrow, Liberal, Chilliwack, said he was not in favor of persons who had been giving evidence being given the right to select their accountants for such an audit. He advocated appointing a reputable auditing firm to do the job.

Mr. Higgins then advanced the proposal that his interests, the board and the agency should confer in an effort to decide on an auditor. If there was no agreement then the choice could be left with the courts.

W. T. Straith, counsel for the board, opposed any plan under which the objecting parties would pay for such an audit. He submitted further there was no sworn evidence at the inquiry which warranted any investigation of the board's books and there had been no dissatisfaction voiced by any witnesses as to the keeping of the company's books.

People who had spread slanderous rumors about the financing of the board should come before the committee to make their statements and not make them at will in public, he said.

If the committee thought the evidence called for an audit, Mr. Straith submitted the proper procedure would be to report to the Legislature and recommend the appointment of an auditor by the Minister of Agriculture. The board was not worried about which auditors might be appointed, he said.

J. D. McPherson, counsel for the board's agency, concurred with Mr. Straith.

R. H. Gerson, Liberal, Kamloops, thought the responsibility for the appointment of an auditor lay with the Provincial Marketing Board under whose jurisdiction the Coast Marketing Board and other boards came.

WITNESSES MISSING When the committee convened this morning it was still without three of the five witnesses scheduled to appear. Among these was George MacFarlane, former employee of G. H. Snow Limited, board agent.

It was reported Mr. MacFarlane had not been served with a subpoena until last night, the subpoena not having been issued until yesterday morning.

Mr. Higgins attacked this procedure, saying he had asked that Mr. MacFarlane be summoned last Tuesday. As a former employee of the agency Mr. MacFarlane had vital evidence for the committee, and his testimony should be heard, Mr. Higgins said. Failure of this witness to appear was a deliberate flout to the committee, Mr. Higgins said.

The committee was also without two of four Chinese witnesses who had attended the inquiry earlier in the week, but who had left for Vancouver. They were Chung Ching and John Hing. The other two, Tom Yee and Low Chong, gave testimony today.

In connection with their non-appearance the board was presented with a letter from Frank C. Hall, Victoria lawyer, who said the Chinese now did not wish to appear. Mr. Hall who was one of the lawyers requested to make inquiry earlier in the week because of abusive language regarding its operation, submitted that since the Chinese had adopted this attitude there were no grounds for the inquiry proceeding.

This suggestion was ignored, however, and the committee tabled the letter without further action on the non-appearance of the witnesses. Tom Yee and Low Chong, in their evidence, added little of a material nature to the inquiry.

OPPOSITION ALLEGED

Clive Plante, Independent, Peace River, sought to introduce a Chinese newspaper in which was purported to be an advertisement calling upon Chinese of Vancouver to unite in a fight against the marketing board and its legislation.

He produced what he said was a true interpretation of the advertisement, but it was not admitted. Joseph Hope, Victoria Chinese, took the stand in an effort to assist the committee in the translation. He said the general purpose of the advertisement indicated an appeal for unity among Chinese against the board, but he would not undertake a complete translation of the advertisement.

In reply to questions from committee members as to why he could not translate the advertisement, Mr. Hope said it would take a little time and added: "I wish I had a classic piece of English literature here which I could ask you gentlemen to translate into Latin."

Rev. G. R. V. Bolster of Saskatoon has accepted a call to the pastorate of St. John's Church here and is expected to arrive in the city early next week, it was learned today from church officials.

Mr. Bolster will become curate, assistant to Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, the call being made after decision by the church board that the pastor required assistance in the large pastorate.

He received his theological education at Trinity College, Dublin, and completed his training at Emmanuel College, Saskatoon.

Labor Protests Panel Doctors

Introduction of the panel system of doctors in British Columbia in connection with health insurance was protested by the Trades and Labor Council yesterday evening.

The council said it would also fail to recognize forms sent out in the future by the insurance commission until such time as labor was informed of the benefits it was to receive under the act.

Additional information concerning reports that water arrears were being assessed against properties in Oak Bay will be sought by the council. This move was prompted by a questioning of legal right of council to take such action.

Action of maritime strikers in the International Longshoremen's Association was endorsed by the council.

COW BY-LAW HELD VALID

Minimum Fine Imposed on Six By Magistrate Hall For Infringements

The city's cow by-law was upheld by Magistrate Henry Hall this morning in a judgment which stated that the ruling was not unreasonable, discriminatory or passed for ulterior motives.

He held that the by-law was within the powers conferred on the City Council by the legislature in that it was regulatory, not prohibitive, and that as such it did not conflict with the provincial Health Act.

Magistrate Hall imposed the minimum fine of $1 on six persons charged with infringing the by-law and who brought the matter to the test, explaining that they had merely been continuing action which they had been taking previous to the passing of the regulation.

The by-law limits the number of cows that can be kept on one city lot. The six defendants were Mrs. J. McComb, Mrs. M. Buchan, J. Gilman, John Culling, C. C. Johnson and Howard H. Raynes.

Mayor Now Has Official Status

For the first time since his return from England Mayor Leeming this morning acted in his official capacity when he presided over the court of revision of the city voters' list. He was permitted to take the chair by legislation of the provincial government this week which reinstated him and Alderman P. R. Brown to their council positions.

Other members of the court of revision were Aldermen T. W. C. Hawkins and S. H. O'Neil. Minor changes in the list were authorized, after which it was approved and its publication authorized.

The regular meeting of the St. Saviour's branch of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the parish hall, with fourteen members present. Final arrangements were made for the court whist drive to be held next Thursday. Games and a sing-song, which had been arranged by the programme committee, were enjoyed.

U.S. VESSEL IS SEIZED

On a charge of illegally fishing in Canadian waters, the U.S. halibut packer Forward of Seattle, Capt. M. Jacobson, was brought into Esquimalt Harbor late yesterday evening by the Canadian Government fisheries patrol steamer Malaspina.

Capt. Walter Redford, master of the Malaspina, claimed the Forward was fishing one mile on the Canadian side of the International Boundary. The seizure was made just at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The master of the fishing boat said he thought he was in his own waters, being about six miles from the Canadian shore.

The Forward had about 18,000 cod on board at the time. The vessel and her crew will be held in Esquimalt Harbor pending instructions from Ottawa.

New Marketing Law In House

Government to Attempt Control If Dominion Law Thrown Out By Privy Council; Control Over Transports Given

British Columbia will attempt to continue with controlled marketing of natural products even if the Privy Council throws out the Bennett Marketing Act, the Legislature was informed last night when Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, put through a new bill on market control.

In a word, the new measure empowers the government to take control, through its marketing board, of all marketing in the province. As explained by the minister it is subject to proclamation in case the Privy Council rejects existing marketing laws.

Dr. MacDonald indicated that he intended to submit the scheme to the courts for a ruling on its validity before putting it into operation.

The new bill gives the government even wider powers over marketing than it now has, because it would enable marketing boards indirectly to control exporting products. Exports have been the chief bone of contention in marketing matters on the mainland for the last six months.

Another section of the bill, to be effective immediately, will give the marketing boards control over transportation of goods subject to their jurisdiction. This has proved a difficult problem in connection with potato marketing on the mainland. Inspectors of the board will be given power to check up on all products by this measure.

The bill also protects against court action any member of a marketing board for actions taken "in good faith" since March 29, 1934. On second reading the bill ran into opposition fire immediately, mainly because it was introduced late in the session.

R. B. Swales, Social Constructive, Delta, declared it was the second time the government has rushed marketing legislation through at the last minute.

"I never want to hear the government talk again about regimentation or control, because if there ever was regimentation this is it," declared Harold Winch, C.C.F., Vancouver East.

"It gives the government power of life and death over all the producers, middlemen and sellers of our goods," Dr. MacDonald insisted that the main features of the bill simply re-enacted what was already in the marketing laws.

NOTION RESCINDED

After a brief, but sharp, exchange yesterday afternoon, the agricultural committee rescinded its motion petitioning for four Chinese witnesses to be brought before the bar of the House. R. H. Carson, chairman, explained the arrangement made with their counsel and the motion was rescinded, with George Murray, the mover, and D. M. McKay, the second, opposed.

As it was withdrawn, Dr. Murray snapped:

"That just shows the impotence of this committee."

"I demand withdrawal of that statement, or I'll have to report you to the House. You can't go putting motives," said Mr. Carson.

"I make that statement after due consideration and will not withdraw. I'm not imputing motives to anyone," said Mr. Murray. "I merely refer to the inability of the committee to bring this whole matter to a conclusion."

"Well, that's different," said Mr. Carson.

Ask Extra Work For Christmas

A request from Saanich unemployed for an extra day's work before Christmas was agreed to by the Saanich Council yesterday evening on condition the provincial government will pay its usual share of such extra work.

The issue caused a split vote among the councillors. Councillors J. O. Passmore, Ward Seven; E. C. Warren, Ward Four, and John Watson, Ward One, were prepared to give the extra out of municipal funds even if the government would not contribute. Councillors H. D. Cotton, Ward Five; L. C. Haggin, Ward Six; W. R. Woods, Ward Four, and A. G. Lambbrick, Ward Three, said they would only agree if the government contributed. They did not feel the ratepayers should bear full cost of such action, which would be about $900.

Credit of Province Highest In Western Canada Says Minister

Hon. John Hart Tells of Finances at Annual Meeting of Liberal Association; Byron Johnson Also Speaker; John Wallace Elected Vice-President

"When we came into office in 1933 British Columbia had no credit. Our credit was the lowest of the four western provinces. Now our credit is the highest of these provinces, and I hope in the not far distant future that we will at least be equal to the eastern provinces of Canada," said Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, when addressing the annual meeting of the Victoria Liberal Association in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening.

Mr. Hart reminded his audience of the election promise he made about giving some aid to the municipalities. He referred to his recent budget which gave this aid.

"But we do not say we are stopping there," Mr. Hart said. "But that is all we can do this year. Next year, if conditions warrant, we may be able to do something more."

Mr. Hart said he had heard it stated the government ministers did not earn their traveling expenses on their trips to Ottawa.

"I might tell you it is a pretty tough trip," Mr. Hart said. "It is not only very tedious, but there is a great deal of work connected with it."

INCOME TAX

Mr. Hart also referred to his election promise that the 1 per cent tax would be eliminated.

"Today you find a married man, with two or three children and some insurance pays no income tax to the province of British Columbia," he said.

When he went into office in 1933, Mr. Hart said, he found British Columbia on the verge of default, but various actions on the part of the present administration had turned the tide for the province and had given the public renewed confidence in it.

"I am confident I will be here long enough to see the credit of British Columbia as high as any province in Canada," Mr. Hart said, as he left the platform, after his brief speech, to take his seat in the House, where he was "piloting through some bills," he told his audience.

KINDLER FEELING

Byron Johnson, senior member in the House for Victoria spoke briefly. A year ago, he said, people of the province, were rather critical of the present administration, but he was glad to see a kinder feeling at the present time. This feeling, he said, was not altogether unjustified.

He said Vancouver Island had received fair treatment in recent years. He said there was justification for the stand some people had taken that Vancouver Island should become a separate province, but he was inclined to feel a "political football" was being made of the question.

"I firmly believe Vancouver Island will not receive its full share until British Columbia receives a more equitable set-up in the Dominion of Canada," Mr. Johnson said.

Premier Pattullo was to have attended the meeting, but last-minute duties kept him at his desk in the House.

NEW VICE-PRESIDENT

John Wallace was elected vice-president at the meeting over Dr. Hugh Clarke. E. M. Whyte withdrew. The other officers were elected by acclamation. They were H. M. McGlavin, president; A. H. Cox, secretary, and E. E. Heath, treasurer. Honorary presidents are Premier Pattullo and Premier Johnson.

In his presidential address, Mr. McGlavin, who occupied the chair, traced the activities of the association during the year. Most important was the amendment to the constitution, which he said was needed very badly.

"I would like to point out this constitution is not iron-clad, but may be amended from time to time, as may seem fit. But, however, until constitutionally amended, its terms shall remain fixed," Mr. McGlavin said.

Do you powder, and then in an hour or so powder again? And do you think this is unavoidable? Test your powder the way experts do. Rub a pinch between thumb and forefinger. If it quickly thins out and rubs away, it will never stay long on your face. The necessary "cling" is not in the powder itself!

Millions of women have so tested the powder they used—and then tested Princess Pat powder to prove for themselves that this famous almond base face powder stays on longer than any other. That's because Princess Pat powder is the only powder with the secret almond base!

However, "cling" is only one advantage of Princess Pat face powder. It goes on with such magical smoothness that it imparts fascinating new beauty utterly without the usual "powdered look." Your complexion becomes flawless, velvety—fresh with the perfection of childhood—lusciously, irresistibly soft and alluring.

It may be hard to believe there can be so much difference in face powders. But try Princess Pat and ask your mirror to decide. Sold at dealers everywhere.... accept no substitute.

Club Is Told Welfare Needs

Active Members Hear Suggestions For Objectives From Miss E. Grubb

After outlining the child welfare work being carried on in Victoria, Miss Elizabeth Grubb, general secretary of the Victoria Welfare Association, speaking to the Active Club at dinner last night in the Dominion Hotel, suggested several ways in which the club could assist.

club was casting about for an objective and thought it might be interested in helping provide milk for under-nourished children; assisting in maintaining children in foster homes, clearing the grounds at Sunshine Camp in Sooke or erecting a play-house there; helping establish a city nursery, or acting as big brothers to delinquent boys.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson. A vote of thanks was moved by Alan Baker, and Miss Grubb was given assurance her suggestions would be seriously considered.

Miss Betty Fitch sang "A Fine Romance" and "Till the Real Thing Comes Along," accompanied by Brian Burdon-Murphy.

Veteran Liberal Honored in House

Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Liberal, Revelstoke, received the public congratulations of the British Columbia Legislature yesterday on his birthday.

Flowers adorned the desk of the doctor, who has sat in the House for twenty years continuously and Premier Pattullo made a complimentary speech wishing him on behalf of the members, health, happiness and prosperity.

He recalled that Dr. Sutherland, R. H. Pooley, E. C. Esquimaux and himself were the only members who had served continuously for twenty years or more.

Pearson Raps at Strike Promoters

Stands By Conciliation and Collective Bargaining in Labor Disputes

In an important statement of the provincial government's labor policy to the Legislature last night, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, pledged himself to the cause of conciliation and collective bargaining in industrial disputes, with the strike as "the last weapon and not the first."

"It is the only weapon the striker has," shouted E. E. Winch, C.C.F., Burnaby, across the floor.

"It is not," Mr. Pearson shouted just as loudly.

The minister charged that labor disputes in British Columbia were, in many cases, led by those who wanted to cause trouble, not with the main idea of improving conditions for the working man.

WINCH BILL BEATEN

Mr. Pearson's statement came in discussion on a trades union bill submitted by Harold Winch, C.C.F., Vancouver East, covering the strike rights of workers, which was defeated.

Reading from the constitution of the Lumberworkers' Industrial Union, he showed that it was affiliated with the Workers' Unity League, the Canadian section of the Red International Labor Union.

"We almost had to use stress to get hold of this constitution and when we did get it the last clause was blue penciled out," he said.

In the constitution of the Mine Workers' Union it was provided that locals should not enter contracts which provided for government intervention in settling strikes, he said.

WRONG LEADERSHIP

"It is leadership of this type that is killing the cause of the working man in this province. While I impute no motives to the honorable member for Vancouver East I fear to ending legislation such as is suggested," he declared.

Referring to the lumber strike last year, the Corbin and Cumberland mine strikes and the longshoremen's strike, Mr. Pearson said:

"I am not saying there was no merit in the men's claims. What I am saying is that the strike should be the last thing the men use, never the first."

"I shall not be happy if I have to leave office without putting in machinery which will place strikes at the end of the line instead of in the front row."

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

The minister stated his views on labor disputes in the following terms:

"I am prepared to agree that it is most desirable that the principle of collective bargaining should be established in British Columbia."

"I am prepared to agree that there is a lamentable lack of organization for co-operation between employer and employee in matters of mutual interest."

"I am prepared to support any movement which I believe is originated for the sole purpose of advancing the just interests of the worker if such movement is advancing on sane lines."

"I am a firm believer and an honest supporter of organization for industrial peace and am a positive antagonist of organization for industrial warfare."

Mr. Pearson said he could not see anything in the Winch bill to encourage the rights of collective bargaining.

PROPOSES NEW BOARD

The minister added that certain provisions of the measure might be made useful if British Columbia had a Bureau of Industrial Arbitration and added:

"I think we might do well to give consideration to the wisdom of setting up such a court, but until this is done I am convinced that this section is of little or no value to the workman."

Mr. Pearson said the Winch bill was evidently designed to strengthen the hands of those who believed the strike was the only method of dealing with labor disputes and that strike and intimidation was the best method of forcing men to unionize.

Most certainly, he said, it strengthened the hands of that element of society which believed the industry must be destroyed, that the competitive system must be laid aside regardless of the misery and suffering entailed in the process. For this reason he could not accept it.

The measure was debated by members on both sides of the House before a vote was taken. Jack Price, Social Constructive, Vancouver East, said the minister had unduly stressed the "red bogey" in his statement.

Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the Opposition, supported the principle of the bill, but thought its conclusions were wrong. An entirely sound bill would recognize the rights of any worker and all workers to organize. This implied a waiting policy which would bear fruit in from ten to twenty-five years from now. The quickest way to put down unwise leadership and recurrent strikes was to recognize the right of all workers to organize.

Jack Price, Social Constructive of Vancouver East, said the bill was an honest effort to bring employer and employee together. It would protect the employee against unscrupulous employer. There ought to be a permanent provincial board for the settlement of industrial disputes.

R. B. Swales, Social Constructive of Delta, also spoke in support of the bill.

Tom Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, said that he would support the bill but he did not think it would stop strikes.

Mrs. Dorothy Stevens, C.C.F. for North Vancouver, supported the bill in principle. She thought that where strong labor unions existed there was a greater feeling of security amongst the workers and a greater willingness for co-operation between employer and employee. Where workers were terrorized and discouraged from organizing, the wrong sort of leadership prevailed and strikes were more imminent. This sort of legislation would help the government to enforce its minimum wage laws.

E. E. Winch, C.C.F., Burnaby, said the Minister of Labor should have recognized the merit of this legislation when it was brought down in a previous session and should by this time have framed a similar bill of its own and not have left it to the private member. Still, he believed, that it had finally compelled the minister to recognize the necessity for such equitable industrial laws.

Ernest Bakewell, Social Constructive, Mackenzie, said he would support the bill, although it was "old fashioned," compulsory labor organization was the order of the day. The government should have, before this, brought forward a bill of its own to put labor organizations on a sound basis.

Rolf W. Bruhn, Conservative of Salmon Arm, opposed the bill. He could not see where it would benefit the workers.

Age Limit For Board Members

The government has no intention of dismissing E. S. Wynn, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, assured the Legislature yesterday when piloting a bill through the House to fix a retirement age for members of the board.

Mr. Pearson proposed a retirement age of sixty-five years, but this was amended by Premier Pattullo to seventy years.

The amendment to the act also brings into effect benefits for miners suffering from silicosis.

Most of the food value in a dish of mushrooms is found in the milk or butter used in the cooking, says one mushroom specialist.

Road Expenses Are Overspent

Saanich Works $1,639 Behind For Ten Months, Report Shows

Public works expenditures on Saanich roads to the end of October this year were $1,639.40 overspent on the current year's estimates, but a favorable balance on general finances will more than offset this amount. It was reported to the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

The largest expenditure has been in Ward Four, where $6,461.40 has been spent on various minor projects, representing an over-expenditure of $765.40 on the year's appropriation of $5,696.

Expenditures in other wards follow: Ward One, $5,349, balance $244.77; Ward Two, $6,492, overspent $832.60; Ward Three, $5,009.12, balance $625; Ward Four, $6,461.40, overspent $765; Ward Five, $5,377.29, balance $316.83; Ward Six, $3,499.19; Ward Seven, $6,409.35, overspent $715.23; general fire-fighting, $250.44, overspent $222.92; parks, $252.86, overspent $2.86.

In connection with Ward Six figures there was an additional expenditure of $5,117.80 on the Island View drainage scheme. This amount, with the Ward Five, creates an over-expenditure of $386.99 out of the $6,200 appropriation.

The total expenditure for the ten months was $42,239.40, while the total appropriation was $40,600.

Speaker Honored In Legislature

Mr. Speaker Perry moved his personal chair into the Legislature last night and in this action R. H. Pooley, K.C., Unionist, Esquimaux, saw a sure sign that British Columbia would have an election before the House meets again.

It is a custom of many years standing for a Speaker of the House to take with him his seat of office when he leaves. He has a special one made, but before taking it away must sit in it in the House at least once.

This was the occasion on which Mr. Pooley commented and commended Mr. Perry upon the fine dignity with which he had upheld the office of speaker. He recalled that Mr. Perry was the nineteenth speaker of the British Columbia House.

Premier Pattullo added a word of praise to those of Mr. Pooley and also dropped the hint that the Liberal Party had made an excellent choice in designating him to preside over the House.

Harold Winch, C.C.F., Vancouver East, added what he called the crowning touch by saying "when a C.C.F. government is in power I would hope that you are still the speaker of this Assembly."

In a very suitable impromptu speech Mr. Perry replied and assured the House that the encomiums had "touched his heart."

Debts on Diking Are Cut Down

Farmers in the Sumas dyking area will be relieved of some $250,000 in charges under a bill piloted through the Legislature last night by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands.

The bill, as explained by the minister, is to adjust levies in the district on a basis that the farmers can pay. Maintenance charges are increased because they are not at present paying for operation of the scheme but, on the other hand, capi-

In Picture Now at the Dominion

McLAGLEN AT THE DOMINION

Interesting Story, Taken From Magazine Article, in "Magnificent Brute"

"The Magnificent Brute" opens at the Dominion Theatre today. The story is taken from Owen Francis's "Big," which ran in Liberty Magazine. Victor McLaglen, winner of the last Academy award for his outstanding screen performance, is the star of this Universal film, in which he is seen as "Big" Steve Andrews, a swaggering maker of steel.

In the steel mills, Big Steve finds the towering Bill Morgan, his bitterest enemy, already installed as "top" workman. Their hatred flames anew when he defeats Morgan in a test of strength. The tension is increased when Big Steve takes Morgan's girl away from him, and the vengeful Bill plots to ruin his rival by underhand means.

William Hall portrays Morgan; Henry Armetta has a prominent role; Billy Burrud is seen as an appealing youngster. Edward Norris and Selma Jackson have important parts. The picture is directed by John G. Blystone.

Shirley Temple Here Tomorrow

Singing and dancing her way once more into millions of hearts, Shirley Temple's new Twentieth Century-Fox triumph, "Dimples," will open tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre.

Hailed as Shirley's wonder show, and featuring swingy new song hits and brand new dance steps, "Dimples" is heralded as the outstanding hit in the little star's parade of brilliant triumphs.

An exceptional cast, headed by the irrepressible and inimitable Frank Morgan, supports Shirley in the film, with Helen Westley, Robert Kent, Astrid Allwyn, Delma Byron, the Hall Johnson Choir and Stepin Fetchit prominently featured.

Replete with laughter, romance and drama, "Dimples" tells the story of a lovable little street minstrel, Shirley, and her incorrigible but irresistibly funny guardian, Frank Morgan.

The film opens with Shirley leading a group of young sidewalk minstrels through songs and dances. As they conclude their performance Morgan pushes through the crowd and starts off the "contributions." This is how he and Shirley take out a precarious livelihood.

ATLAS THEATRE

"The nice thing about movie work," panted Warren William, wiping perspiration from his brow, "is the variety of the work you do." For example, jumping literally from one picture to another, and working with four tinsel madmen in one small set representing a Broadway producer's office.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Warner Oland plays his eleventh Charlie Chan role in the new Fox mystery, "Charlie Chan at the Circus," which is now at the Oak Bay Theatre. The new film is another amazing exploit of the clever Chinese detective in solving a baffling mystery.

PLAZA THEATRE

Comedy, thrills and romance are contained in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "It's in the Air," now playing at the Plaza Theatre.

Jack Benny has the leading role. Una Merkel, as Benny's wife, shows her forte as a dramatic actress. Ted

Where To Go Tonight

Atlas—"Stage Struck" with Dick Powell.

Capitol—"Nine Days a Queen" starring Nova Philbeam.

Columbia—"Dracula's Daughter."

Dominion—Victor McLaglen in "The Magnificent Brute."

Oak Bay—Warner Oland in "Charlie Chan at the Circus."

Plaza—Jack Benny in "It's in the Air."

Popular Singing Star at the Atlas Special Matinee Saturday Morning

Here is Dick Powell, who has one of the leading roles in "Stage Struck," the picture, which is now at the Atlas Theatre.

Healy and Nat Pendleton are super in their respective roles of the "com-fidence man's" side-kick and the excellent performance.

The management of the Atlas Theatre today announced that a special children's matinee will be held on Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock, when candy and balloons will be given to the first 500 children attending.

The first feature, "Stage Struck," starring Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, is a delightful back-stage romance. The second feature is "Two in Revolt," a splendid story of a dog and horse as the stars of the picture. Many beautiful outdoor scenes and very creditable animal action shots are shown.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

The script of the Universal picture, "Dracula's Daughter," contains several extremely dramatic sequences. The picture is now at the Columbia Theatre.

CORN CARGOES MAY BE RUINED

Thousands of Tons on Ships at Pacific Coast Ports Are in Danger

Seattle, Nov. 19.—Stored in the holds of the strike-bound British steamship Barthill, which arrived in Seattle November 2, from Argentina, are 7,100 tons of shelled corn in bulk, which has started to heat and may be a total loss. The damage to the cargo is not serious, but will be if the corn is not discharged soon.

The Barthill is at the Hanford Street Terminal of the Port Commission and although the vessel has no crew troubles, she is unable to put her cargo ashore because of the longshoremen's strike.

Grain men said corn stored aboard a ship for a long period starts to sweat, then heats, discolors and sprouts. Efforts to dispose of the corn in Vancouver, B.C., have been unsuccessful. The cargo was loaded at Rosario.

A full cargo of shelled corn in bulk is aboard the strike-bound British steamship Crescenda, which arrived in Tacoma November 15 from Argentina. The cargo has not started to deteriorate, but will heat soon if not discharged, according to word received in Seattle. The Crescenda has 6,800 tons of the grain, loaded in Rosario.

The British freighter Myansa arrived in San Francisco yesterday with more than 7,000 tons of corn from Argentina consigned to the Taylor Milling Company. The arrival of the Myansa swells the San Francisco list of corn ships to six. The other vessels are the Wearpool, Uganda, Harborton, Chelsea and King Alfred. They have been prevented from discharging by the maritime strike.

Ms. Asama Maru Coming North
Reports Say She Will Leave San Francisco For Vancouver This Evening

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—The Japanese liner Asama Maru arrived yesterday with its 270 passengers, including seventy-nine who were stranded for several weeks at Honolulu by the Pacific Coast maritime strike.

Among the seventy-nine were one of the world's richest couples, the Maharaja and Maharani Holkar of Indore, fourth largest province of India.

The Honolulu passengers paid a $200 penalty each, assessed by the government on foreign ships carrying passengers between American ports.

Newsy Briefs of Land Sea and Air

DUST AT SEA

San Pedro, Nov. 20.—It was so dusty yesterday on the ocean that coastguard cutters were unable to find their targets in practice firing, returning to port until visibility improved.

A thirty-two-mile-an-hour "santana" wind, blowing dust from the mountains far out to sea, disrupted the target schedule which will resume Saturday—if there is no more dust.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Kingsport, Ont., Nov. 20.—The steamship Silma, Palma Bay and Samuel Anglin, laid up at Portsmouth were destroyed by fire yesterday evening.

SHORT OF FOOD

Honolulu, Nov. 20.—Governor Joseph B. Poindexter yesterday telegraphed a request to the Department of the Interior to dispatch a vessel laden with food and supplies to Hawaii to relieve an "alarming situation" caused by the maritime strike called October 28.

The governor acted after conferring with army, navy and civil authorities.

CUTTERS DAMAGED

Seattle, Nov. 20.—Cable advice to coastguard headquarters here yesterday said a hurricane accompanied by snow and rain swept over the Gulf of Alaska and Kodiak Island Sunday damaging the coastguard cutters Morris and Tallapoosa.

A lifeboat was washed off the Morris and a launch from the Tallapoosa was smashed on the rocks when it attempted to reach shore from nearby Woody Island. Seven men and a trained nurse in the launch miraculously escaped death, the report said.

FALSE REPORTS

Seattle, Nov. 20.—A ferry whistle "stuck" here yesterday and its long and blatant bellowing started a rumor away down on Grays Harbor the maritime strike had been settled.

Not only that, but in the exchange of excited telephone calls, the confusion became worse and confused until Seattle shippers heard that whistles were blowing at Aberdeen in celebration of a strike truce and Aberdeen shippers heard there was merrymaking on Seattle's waterfront of a similar armistice.

Investigation disclosed there was no armistice, no celebration, only a ferryboat whistle in need of repairs.

GREAT DOCK FIRE

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—Fire destroyed a Delaware River pier yesterday evening, spreading so rapidly two ships barely cast off in time to avoid being damaged. Fire Marshal Harry Ebdal estimated the loss at more than $1,000,000.

The glare from the blazing pier could be seen for miles along the Delaware River in South Jersey and smoke from burning merchandise on the pier billowed along the waterfront and drifted east over Camden.

Albert Smith, pier watchman, said a spark from a nearby bonfire might have ignited the structure, which is owned by the Pennsylvania railroad.

PICOTS, N.S., Nov. 20.—The schooner Benny Lou, bound for New Glasgow, N.S., from Pinette, P.E.I., sprang a leak in the East River and sank yesterday. Capt. Dan MacDonald and the other seaman aboard escaped.

RADIO CERTIFICATES

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—The Department of Transport, radio division, announced yesterday the following have been awarded commercial certificates of proficiency in radio: T. D. Cushing, Kelowna; R. H. M. Lobb, New Westminster; P. H. Battison, J. E. Hey, D. T. Horne and H. R. Meyers, Vancouver, and J. A. Nesbitt, Victoria.

MANY RECRUITS

London, Nov. 20.—Nearly 11,000 men and boys joined the Royal Air Force in 1935, compared with 2,700 in 1934, says a report issued yesterday. Of 20,000 candidates, 11,000 were found fit for general service.

Deaths from injuries in 1935 totaled 128, compared with fifty-eight in 1934. But fifty-one of the former were due to the earthquake in Quetta, India.

CAPTAIN TO LEAVE SEA

Com. Leopold Ziegenbein to Retire, to Be Succeeded by Capt. Adolph Ahrens

New York, Nov. 20.—Commodore Leopold Ziegenbein, commander of the North German Lloyd express liner Bremen, will retire from the sea shortly.

Ziegenbein, who celebrated his sixty-second birthday on November 16, has spent forty-six years at sea. He is succeeded on the Bremen by Capt. Adolph Ahrens, formerly of the St. Columbus.

Born in Cella, Germany, in 1874, Commodore Ziegenbein first went to sea in 1890, in the Bremen bark Puerst Blamark. After serving a ten-year apprenticeship, during which time he rounded Cape Horn eight times and served on such sailing vessels as the Philadelphia, Otto and Noma, he entered the services of the North German Lloyd April 26, 1900, being appointed fourth officer of the St. Wilhelm. Then followed a period of successive promotions until, for several years, Leopold Ziegenbein commanded the St. Kong-Beng in the company's Far East service.

In the decade following, he served on twenty-seven different Lloyd steamers, finally being appointed second officer on the express steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II. In 1907, holding the same rank, he was transferred to the Kronprinzessin Cecilie. In 1920, Leopold Ziegenbein became first officer on the St. Seydlitz, and upon the completion of the St. Columbus in 1924, he was transferred to the Bremen.

Further events in this eventful career include his elevation to captain in 1926, and his command of the Wide and Aachen, leading up to his becoming master of the St. Berlin in 1927, a post he relinquished to supervise the building of the Bremen. In 1932 the North German Lloyd appointed him Commodore of its fleet, and the following year he was presented with a commodore's standard.

When Commodore Ziegenbein brought the Bremen into port July 16, 1929, at the conclusion of her maiden voyage, with a record crossing of 4 days 17 hours 42 minutes, a new epoch in maritime history was begun. This record was several times bettered until November 8, 1934, when on the occasion of her 100th voyage, the Bremen made the transatlantic crossing in 4 days 14 hours 27 minutes, at an average speed of 25.6, her best westward mark up to now.

The glare from the blazing pier could be seen for miles along the Delaware River in South Jersey and smoke from burning merchandise on the pier billowed along the waterfront and drifted east over Camden.

Albert Smith, pier watchman, said a spark from a nearby bonfire might have ignited the structure, which is owned by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Played Mouth Organ While Waiting Doom On Rolling Dunsyre

—for a long tramp through the woods to civilization.

"It was a wonder the lifeboat didn't stove herself in," Heister said. "For two hours and forty-five minutes—from 8 to 10:45 o'clock Wednesday morning—the three men rowed towards shore."

"I looked up once," said Heister, who was at the tiller, "and I saw a light house. We thought that was pretty good, so we rowed for it. We had to row around quite a bit before we could make a landing through the rocks."

The lightkeeper, who had been watching the drifting barge and the three men in the lifeboat, met them and took them to the safety of the lighthouse.

From the tower, high on the island, Billington, Heister and Larkin watched the death struggle of the Dunsyre.

"We saw her hit about half a mile from the lighthouse," Heister said. "The seas rolled her over on her side. She slid off one rock and then got caught on another. Twenty minutes later she disappeared."

While they were in the lifeboat the men did not dare take their hands off the oars. So hard did they row that blisters formed on their calloused hands.

"Were we nervous?" Heister was asked.

"Well, I guess we were. The captain said he didn't mind so much for himself, but he hated to see us younger fellows go. It was sure a miracle we ever got ashore. If it hadn't been for the lighthouse we would never have got ashore. The breakers would have smashed our boat and we would have been dashed to pieces."

The tow line holding the Dunsyre to the Anyox broke about 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The gale was blowing hard at the time and increased as darkness fell.

The donkey boiler on the Dunsyre carried away in the seas. Everything movable below decks fell as the big barge "rolled her beam ends right under."

Heister said it was trying sitting on the barge all night, looking at the clock and waiting for daylight and really believing they would never get ashore, although none would admit such a thought and tried to cheer each other as best they could.

"About 2 o'clock in the morning Roy and I were absolutely exhausted, so we had to lie down," said Heister. "We got into a single bunk together with our lifebelts, heavy clothing and gum boots on, ready to jump out the minute she struck—only she didn't. Capt. Billington stuck it out on deck."

The three men had quite a bit to do during the night. It was a steady job to keep things lashed and to see the lifeboat was still intact. Once during the night they let the anchor go on seventy fathoms of chain.

"Sure, I'll go to sea again, only my mother is kind of worried, I think," Heister said.

"But if I have to go through a night like that again just to get in the papers, I'd rather keep out of the papers," the blonde, six-footer grinned as he told his story.

When Allan is not at sea he packs a paper route for The Times, delivering his papers to subscribers on Rockland Avenue, Moss street, St. Charles Street and other streets in that district. When he gets a job at sea his younger brother packs the paper route. He knows the sea and its whims pretty well. The last two summers he has been whaling with his granddad, Capt. William Heister, off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

"Why, the way the Dunsyre rolled made the whalers look like pikers," he said.

LEFT SHIP LAST
Loyal to the traditions of the sea, Capt. Billington was last to leave the Dunsyre. He had to jump four or five feet from the vessel to the lifeboat.

When the three saw the lights of the Anyox disappear into the darkness he looked at the two boys and said: "Have a glass of wine, boys, and some biscuits." He thought it was all over for them.

"If it hadn't been for Allan steering our boat through the whitecaps we would never have reached land," Larkin said. "The way that kid steered through the rocks into the pass was a marvel."

Because of his size Heister was ordered to the tiller, while Capt. Billington helped Larkin with the rowing.

Seattle, Nov. 20 (Associated Press).—Col. William Sharo, army district recruiting officer, said today his office had broken all its peace-time monthly records during the past two months. It enlisted 151 men in October and 140 the first nineteen days of November.

U.S. Lumbermen In Market Quest

Effects of Agreement With Canada So Far Criticized By W. Compton

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Wilson Compton, manager of the United States Lumber Manufacturers' Association, told the National Foreign Trade Convention here today the lumber industry's resentment against reciprocal trade agreements would be lessened if the programme were functioning on a world-wide basis.

Compton said the stand taken by the industry on the Canadian agreement in 1935 was the "starting point from which we direct our drive for the restoration of American lumber and timber products to a rightful place in the sun of a rising international-commerce."

"The position taken by the industry," he said, "while it frankly criticized the lumber provisions of the Canadian agreement, was that the industry recognized and respected the agreement as constituting the delicate conclusion of the President."

He described the agreement with Canada as an added difficulty which had been accepted in the hope the government would aid in restoring foreign markets.

WORLD MARKETS
Lumber manufacturers, he said, resented "what seemed to them a needless further exposure of their domestic markets to the hazards of Canadian competition" while leaving the Canadian lumber industry in "unchallenged possession" of preferential advantages "which have gradually obliterated American lumber from great world markets, for which it had been accepted in the hope the government would aid in restoring foreign markets."

"That resentment continues," he said, "although it is tempered by the belief that if the reciprocity programme is consummated on a world-wide basis and the reasonable co-operation of other nations is attained through restoration of international commerce, the industry, which so far has had little but the bitter taste of foreign competition in its already saturated domestic markets, may also have the sweeter taste of larger opportunities for equal competition in world markets."

MARKETLESS GRADES
The industry produced many grades and items for which there was no adequate domestic market, he said. The alternatives "to the waste of these otherwise non-marketable products are either foreign markets or abandonment in the woods."

The loss of export markets had added seriously to the waste of timber in recent years, Compton said, especially in the Pacific Northwest.

"Whatever the merits of the debate over the lumber tariff," he said, "and however important the continuance of such measures of protection as will at least avoid necessity of reducing wage scales toward the lower levels of principal foreign competitors, it is true that a restored and healthy export trade will benefit the lumber industry as a whole more than the present vacillating protection in the domestic markets."

OPPOSE CLOSE QUOTAS
The lumber industry must have "a chance to compete without discriminations, stings quotas and exclusive tariffs," Compton said of the national foreign trade conference.

"The discriminations in the British Empire preferences this year have deprived the American manufacturers of west coast woods of nearly a half billion feet of additional exports."

"They have contributed heavily on the west coast to the comparative idleness of nearly half of the sawmill capacity and to the inadequate and insecure employment of tens of thousands of men formerly dependent on the lumber industry for a livelihood."

The American Legion was organized in Paris in 1919.

There are 7013 persons to the square mile in England.

Robins raise two broods of four to six young each year.

Representatives of the United States Commerce Department, the United States navy and private business will meet next Tuesday to formulate recommendations for such a sub-sidized service.

The meeting will make a report to the new maritime commission, which, in turn, will submit its findings to Congress.
